Corregidor Routs 54 Planes

Washington
March 24 (INS)

•OFFICIAL NEWS
By JOSEPH A. BORS

Sharp-shooting American and Philippine artillerymen pounded Japanese lines on Bataan today, inflicting heavy casualties, while anti-aircraft batteries on Corregidor island beat off an attack by 54 new type heavy enemy bombers.

Intensified activity in the Philippines was reported in a War Department communique which asserted the first concentrated bombing raid since early January caused only slight damage to military installations.

The attack was called the biggest mass air bombing yet hurled against Corregidor.

Despite recent Japanese claims that American defense positions in the Manila area had been wiped out by bombing raids the Americans gave a good account of themselves by shooting down at least three bombers. An enemy claim that Corregidor had been completely destroyed appeared definitely refuted by today's communique.

It was understood the heavy anti-aircraft fire has broken up the attack today on the main fortified islands but that land fighting on Bataan continued.

"Several sharp encounters occurred in Bataan between hostile ground forces," the communique said

"Our artillery laid down a concentrated fire on enemy positions. Japanese losses are believed to have been considerable, while our casualities were slight."

The renewal of heavy bombing raids on American positions indicated the Japanese were moving to carry out threats made several days ago when an ultimatum to surrender was ignored by Lieut.-Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright.

The previous attempt to level Corregidor was made by the Japanese between Jan. 3 and Jan. 20 but all raids were beaten off then by heavy anti-aircraft fire.

ITALY CLAIMS 19 SHIPS

ROME, (from Italian official broadcasts), March 21 (AP)—The Italian high command today claimed a total of 19 British warships and merchant vessels were sunk, damaged or at least hit in an air and naval engagement that ranged from the Gulf of Sirte, off the Libyan coast, into the eastern Mediterranean.

JAPS AGAIN RAKE PORT MORESBY

Melbourne, Australia
March 24 (AP)

•OFFICIAL NEWS

Japanese airmen made their second big attack in two days on Port Moresby, outer island outpost of Australia's northeastern defenses, sending over two waves of bombers protested by fighter planes today.

The bombers centered their attack on the New Guinea port's airdrome in a persistent effort to rub out combined Australian and American air forces which have made Japanese positions in this area so costly to maintain.

Then they attacked targets near the town while the navy zero fighters sought to drive off defending planes.

Prime Minister John Curtin, who announced this, the only military action on the whole Australian front today, said no damage or casualties so far had been reported from the raid and added that one of the raiders was damaged by anti-aircraft shells and probably was unable to gte back to its base.

Following yesterday's strong attack in which 19 heavy bombers dropped 67 bombs about the Port Moresby airdrome, it appeared the Japanese were concentrating their remaining air strength in the northeastern island area to knocking out this objective.

(German broadcasts of Japanese reports declared Port Moresby harbor had been made useless for embarkation purposes by yesterday's bombing.

(Three transports leaving the harbor were declared to have been sunk, two capsizing immediately and the third turning over soon afterward.)

Port Moresby, on the south coast of New Guinea, is about 300 miles across dangerous Torres Strait from the bleak Cape York Peninsula of the Australian mainland.

The Japanese, from their landing places at Lae, Salamau and Finschaven on the northeastern New Guinea coast, have been reported moving inland up the Markham river, possibly for an attempted land attack on Port Moresby from the north, but there still was no further word of this expedition today.

HITLER HURLS RESERVES ON RED FRONT

Moscow
March 24 (AP)

•OFFICIAL NEWS
By EDDIE GILMORE

Germany piled reserves into Russian front positions from areas as far away as Yugoslavia and Norway today for Hitler's coming effort to regain the initiative.

The Soviet information bureau told of scattered actions in which Soviet troops killed 2500 invaders on the neighboring Leningrad and Kalinin fronts and recaptured several communities elsewhere.

However, its continued report that there had been no material changes gave a feeling of calm before the storm.

From prisoners, Red army men said they learned many of the Nazi replacements were German factory workers only recently called into military service.

Two settlements in the southwestern combat zone were reported recaptured in two days of fighting which cost the Germans heavily and several inhabited localities were liberated in another area.

"Units operating in one of the sectors of the Kalinin front annihilated in fighting about 700 enemy officers and men," a communique said. "Seventeen enemy tanks were put out of action."

The 16th German army, fighting against encirclement in the Staraya Russa sector of the Kalinin front, was officially alleged to be burning both the bodies of its dead and its immobilized wounded to conceal losses before withdrawal.

"While retreating from the village of 'K' the Germans burned 60 of their wounded soldiers," the communique said.

NAZIS BOMB ENGLAND; NEW INVASION FEAR

London
March 24 (INS)

•OFFICIAL NEWS

England speculated today on whether last night's German air raids on three coastal towns—heaviest in nine months—might be a prelude to resumption of large-scale assaults or even of invasion.

At least six persons were known to be dead and an undetermined number were injured in raids on the three towns. British night fighters were heard in action over several areas including London's vicinity.

In an official statement to the House of Commons, Sir John Anderson, lord president of the council, warned the invasion season was ahead and said the job will be to "trick and wipe out the enemy by every means."

"Everyone must stand firm. All fit men who want to fight must be armed and organized," he said.

Hundreds of workers tore at debris in one southeast coastal town today to extricate a number of persons buried by bombs.

Fifteen Nazi bombers unloaded cargoes over the town, demolishing banks, shops and rows of cottages, witnesses said.

In the two other raided towns, one dirtct bomb hit was scored on an air raid shelter. Much damage was done to the third town, but a bomber was downed there.

The attacking planes took advantage of a bright crescent moon to penetrate the curtain of anti-aircrift fire from coastal batteries, it was said.

•ENEMY REPORT
(FROM GERMAN BROADCASTS)

The German radio quoted a Japanese spokesman today as having declared that "Japan is now on the defensive and the Anglo-American powers on the offensive."

The quotation was from Capt. Hideo Hiraide, a Japanese naval spokesman, writing in the Tokyo newspaper Yomiuri.

"It seems that since the capitulation of the Netherlands East Indies, the situation has reached a turning point and that Japan is on the defensive and the Anglo-American powers on the offensive," he said.

"Defensive lines do not, however, lead to victory. Japan, therefore, must win the present war by offensive tactics.

"It must continue its offensive by securing the Indian ocean and Australia as strongholds for big future military operations.

"Although over 50 enemy submarines and four out of a total of nine enemy aircraft carriers have been sunk since the outbreak of war in the Pacific, the enemy is expected to reinforce his fleet this year by another 10 special carriers. The enemy will then be sure to attempt attacks from Hawaii, New Zealand, Samoa and other points."

Hiraide then discussed the opinion prevailing in some Japanese circles that the wealth of southern regions already was entirely at Japan's disposal and that the Japanese empire thus was invincible.

The captain termed this a great mistake.

"The raw material sources of the southern regions are not yet accessible, although in Japanese hands," he wrote.

"Only when Japan is able to make a practical use of these sources will her position be invincible. Until then, numerous difficult problems must be surmounted, one of which is the transport question."

In conclusion, he asserted that the Japanese navy was determined to remove enemy influence entirely from the Pacific and Indian oceans.

Boy, 17, Buries Nine Pals at Sea in 21 Days

By RICHARD ARMSTRONG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CRISTOBAL, C. Z. (Delayed)—In the tired, flat monotone of an old man who has seen too much of horror, a 17-year-old messboy, Robert Emmet Kelley, of Philadelphia, sole survivor of 33 crewmen on a torpedoed tanker, today related from his hospital bed his 21-day Odyssey of death in an open lifeboat, during which all of his nine companions died.

Among those whom he buried at sea during those 21 days were William Wenzel, Philadelphia, his "buddy" from earliest school days, and Joseph McBride, another friend who had lived across the street from him in Philadelpha.

It was on the night of Feb. 21, somewhere in the Caribbean, that his ship—just one day out of Aruba—was attacked by a wolf pack of enemy submarines known to have been operating there then.

CAPTAIN GORY

"We had just had lifeboat drill about 15 minutes before—I guess it must have been around 7 o'clock—when what I think was a shell hit forward, set the ship on fire and took away the radio shack," he said.

"The captain came running back from the bridge with his face all bloody and ordered us to the boats. The boat I went to stuck so we went over to the windward where they were launching another. We couldn't get to the boats forward because of the fire.

"Well, there were more than 30 of us in that boat when we started lowering it. Somebody got excited and pulled the aft release from the tackle too soon and flipped the boat over, throwing us all in the water."

He paused to adjust the hot water bottle he was holding to his oil-seared lips and throat and revealed on his left wrist a mother-

$60,000 GEMS STOLEN ON HUB TRAIN

Theft of $60,000 worth of diamonds and jewelry aboard a Boston-bound train from New York was reported to Boston police today by Benjamin R. Davis, a New York diamond salesman.

Davis, who arrived here at 7 a. m. on a night train out of Grand Central Station, said 2000 unset diamonds, a diamond-and-ruby brooch worth $1050 and a wallet with $32 in cash were stolen from beneath his pillow as he slept.

He said he has been employed for about a year by Morris Silberstein, diamond cutter and importer, of Fifth ave., Manhattan.

He boarded the combination New Haven and Boston & Albany train, via Springfield, shortly before 11:30 last night and went to his berth, pinning the curtains and placing two wallets under his pillow, he said.

Though the train arrived at South Station at 7 a. m. today, Davis slept until 8 o'clock, he said. Waking, he discovered his loss and immediately notified the train conductor and then Boston & Albany Railroad police.

RING BELLS FOR ALLIED VICTORY

BOSTON VICTORY BELLS TO HAIL ALL TRIUMPHS

Jealous critics of Boston's recent big victory celebration today were handed a clinching silencer with announcement by John J. Walsh, chairman of the Boston Committee on Public Safety, that the city's air-raid siren system now is perfected as a result of the demonstration.

"I welcomed the opportunity to test the siren system," Walsh said in commenting on the celebration suggested by the Boston Daily Record-Evening American and Sunday Advertiser.

Walsh's frank endorsement came on the heels of a letter of warm approval and commendation from President Roosevelt and City Council action which will hear the bells and other signal devices rung again when an outstanding victory of our armed forces warrants it.

"I had been wanting to test those sirens ever since the recent blackout," Chairman Walsh said. "And as a result of the victory demonstration a new system is being installed on top of the South Boston High School. We learned that the one on the United Shoe Machinery building roof could not be heard in all parts of Boston."

Chairman Walsh also disclosed that since the blackout several weeks ago, changes had been made in the siren on the new courthouse building and that the victory demonstration proved that an "echo" fault now was entirely corrected.

Meanwhile, while other Boston newspapers with less foresight ate humble pie, the Boston City Council followed up President Roosevelt's enthusiastic approval by adopting a system of "Victory Bells" to ring out henceforth for all great American victories.

SWEDEN MASSES DEFENSE FORCES IN FEAR OF WAR

BERN, Switzerland, March 24 (AP)—Mindful of the possibility that Scandinavia's uneasy peace may be ended by a spring flare-up in the war, Sweden is keeping a considerable defense force under arms, trustworthy advices from Stockholm said today.

But it was emphasized that recent tension had relaxed in the last few days, and it was denied that the calling of additional troops for maneuvers at the end of February had reached the proportions of complete mobilization.

An explanation of the easier feeling in Sweden was seen in Stockholm news dispatches to the effect that indications in the Axis capitals, as well as in Turkey, point to a German offensive in the Near East which may start soon.

(The London Daily Express' foreign editor declared today that maneuvers in Sweden were a cloak for complete mobilization, with none of the reserves being released and more being called quietly every day.)

HOW M'ARTHUR BEATS THE JAPS

By AUSTEN LAKE

IN his memoirs Gen. Ferdinand Foch, the savior of France in World War I, wrote: "The key to victory rests in the tent of the commander," a euphemism by which he intended to convey the vital importance of the general's ability to make any instant and pregnant decision during the course of battle. On the capacity of the general's speed and accuracy of decision rested the success of his armies.

That has been especially fitting to Gen. Douglas MacArthur. For in his "book" pre-battle planning, such as his withdrawal to Bataan under constant Japanese pressure, was merely a previously prepared engineering formula worked out leisurely with cold logic and simple blue print.

But when it came to actual combat and collision with an energetic, swift-moving and resourceful enemy like the Jap, he knew that the most carefully corelated pre-battle plan and the most brilliant staff preparation was futile. It offered no answer to tactical problems which altered from one instant to another. Thought must be instant, decision swift, calculation unerring.

MacArthur, from his West Point days, remembered Napoleon's famous dictum: "Plan of operation? I never had a plan of opeartion. I advanced in the center of my battalion secure in the knowledge that wherever I encountered the enemy my superior power of maneuver would enable me to defeat him."

GEN. MacARTHUR
Planned Defense

Napoleon was cocky. MacArthur is cocky, too, as was every great commander who had a profound confidence in his own ability and audacity.

Long years before he had demonstrated his abiilty to decide on the field of action and adapt his course to meet the emergency of the moment. As chief of staff for the Rainbow Division during World War I he had sensed a wide German retreat along the Marne and ordered his front echelons out of objectives they had just taken to continue the advance.

THOUGH he might have faced a courtmartial he ignored the de rigeur military custom of asking authorization for his move from the division command. Rather than lose valuable time in contacting his superior, he gave the order to advance himself, instantly and without hesitation, knowing that failure to keep contact with divisions which supported his flanks might cost him his career. But the chance was NOW, and he took it firmly by the forelock.

Instead of courtmartialling him Pershing made him a brigade commander for that, recognizing that here was no brass-bound, tape-entangled, text-book general who waited on punctillio formalities. A few weeks later he lifted MacArthur to Division Command.

• • •

Once he was safely removed to Bataan in the Philippines MacArthur had to face the flux and flow of the battle tide with the quick decisions that marked his World War career. His recipe for victory did not consist of rushing the enemy like a mad bull nor yet in keeping his troops in a system of trenches and emplacements with orders to hold them at any cost. His terse communiques from the peninsula during the 11 weeks that followed his retreat contained no epigram like Marshall Petain's at Verdun, "They shall not pass," nor Weygand's at Sedan "Every soldier must die in his tracks rather than yield an inch."

Either method was to relinquish initiative into the hands of the Jap. Impressed deeply in his mind was the 37-year-old report that his father, Lieut.-Gen. Arthur MacArthur, had made on the character of the Japanese soldier during the Russo-Japanese war in 1905, "As storm trooper the Japanese is excellent. While he retains the initiative and power to attack he is relentless and almost invincible. But rader pressure of assault and on defense he becomes confused, irresolute and befuddled. On defense he loses spirit and is inclined to stampede."

GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR chose the middle course, knowing he lacked man-power and armament to make a strong frontal attack. So he sent out constant streams of patrols to slash and harass the enemy lines. He moved his artillery swiftly from one sector to another, unloosing the full blast of its force on concentrated targets and occasionally attacking with fast stabbing sorties. It was his old doctrine of

BUY BONDS FOR BOMBERS

$250,000 Pledge By Waldorf System

BUY BONDS FOR MASSACHUSETTS BOMBERS! Our hero, Gen. MacArthur said he has "absolute confidence in our complete VICTORY." He's counting on every man, woman and child in America making unselfish sacrifices to help him attain that glorious goal.

You, Mr. and Mrs. America, can do YOUR part by BUYING BONDS and STAMPS. Every dollar, dime or penny helps Uncle Sam provide Gen. MacArthur and his gallant forces with the guns, tanks, ships and BOMBERS they need for COMPLETE VICTORY.

BUY BONDS FOR MASSACHUSETTS BOMBERS TODAY!

Rallying behind the drive being conducted by the Boston Daily Record-American and Sunday Advertiser, the Waldorf System Incorporated today set a goal of $250,000 as its contribution. This satisfying figure pushed the fund total to $27,412,236 and helps to make more certain that Massachusetts' role in the FINAL VICTORY will be a big one.

James J. Curry, president of the Waldorf restaurant chain, sent the BUY A MASSACHUSETTS BOMBER editor (5 Winthrop square, Boston, Mass.), the following statement:

"One might say that the Waldorf System Incorporated has gone 'all out' on BONDS and STAMPS. Not only the company itself, but nearly all of its 5000 employes are participating.

A $50,000 START

"A few days after Pearl Harbor by a vote of the board of directors, the company purchased $50,000 in BONDS. This made a good start.

"Immediately after, the payroll deduction plan was introduced for department managers, store managers and assistants, whereby, with the assistance of the company, these employes could buy bonds in this easy fashion. To this idea the response was astoundingly good.

"For all other employes who prefer to buy BONDS by means of STAMPS each Waldorf unit has STAMPS and albums available in 25-cent denominations. Here the workers buy as many as they wish each week, and the company has made it clear that it expects everyone to do his patriotic DUTY and BUY!

"The Waldorf System urges every true American to BUY STAMPS and BONDS every pay day and help support the men at our fighting fronts."

BUY BONDS FOR MASSACHUSETTS BOMBERS! Already thousands of individuals and organizations have heeded the urgent call for help and have patriotically pledged themselves to BUY BONDS and STAMPS.

A JOB FOR ALL

This is no job for a select group, however. It is the DUTY of every person in America, especially in this grand old Commonwealth of Massachusetts where American fighting spirit was born and given its baptism of fire at Lexington and Bunker Hill.

No one should postpone BUYING BONDS and STAMPS. There's no postponing by our gallant soldiers and sailors. When the enemy appears, they FIGHT. They ask no concessions or favors . . . all they want is guns, tanks, ships and BOMBERS.

We've sent our boys off to the fighting front with great promises of all we'll do for them. We've patted them on the back, cheered them as they passed on parade, and wished them luck.

Are we going to FORGET them now that they stand on the threshold of the tremendous offensive drive which they intend to carry through to FINAL VICTORY.

BUY BONDS FOR MASSACHUSETTS BOMBERS and show the boys we're behind them with all our hearts, minds and every worldly possession, if necessary.

NELSON ASKS 30 DAYS FOR LABOR PACT

WASHINGTON March 24 (AP)—War Production Chief Donald Nelson asked Congress today to give him a 30-day time limit to obtain voluntary suspension of double pay for overtime through agreement with leaders of organized labor before enacting legislation on the matter.

He promised the House naval committee he would ask for legislation himself then if he was unable to obtain that agreement. He opposed suspension of federal maximum hour legislation and a ban against closed shops in industries handling Army and Navy contracts.

LABOR PATRIOTIC

"The men at the bench are just as patriotic as you or I," he told Chairman Vinson (D.) of Georgia, of the committee, who with Representative Smith (D.) of Virginia drafted the far-reaching measure.

"The present law," he said, "does not prevent men from working more than 40 hours a week. It has not set the pattern for the length of our work week in our war industries. It governs wages rather than the hours in which a man may work."

He told the committee men in the "highly strategic" machine tool industry now were working an average of 55 hours, that those in the shipbuilding industry averaged 48 hours, and those in aircraft plants 49.

WARNS ON WAGE STRUCTURE

"If we abolish the 40-hour week by law," he said "we do not gain one hour of additional work in our war industries, but naturally we create a widespread demand for increases in wage rates, throw the entire wage structure out of adjustment, and remove an important incentive for labor to shift from non-essential industries into war production jobs."

Senator George (D.) of Georgia earlier had predicted public demand would force drastic and perhaps "unwise" legislative curbs on labor unless the Administration acted promptly to seek a modification of the 40-hour week law.

FREE LUNCHES MAY GO IN AIR PLANT PROBE

CLEVELAND, March 24 (AP)—The "associates" woh man the machines in a war plant that paid them $650,000 in Christmas bonuses wondered today if they would have to start paying for their lunches.

For several months employes of Jack & Heintz, Inc., maker of aircraft parts, have eaten free lunches in the new plant's cafeteria.

This was part of amorel building program which President William S. Jack, 53-year-old former machinist, inaugurated to obtain peak production.

"The men need good, hot food to maintain efficiency," Jack recently told an interviewer. "We told them we would increase their wages three cents an hour and charge them for lunches, or give them free food without the three-cent raise. They decided in favor of the free meal."

EFFICIENCY INCREASED

This, he said, was one of the worker benefits which made Jack & Heintz production efficiency "20 per cent higher than in any other plant in the country."

Investigation by the House naval committee of the company's alleged "wilful dissipation" of government money raised doubt among employes whether the boss can continue his policies.

Asks Prosecution Of War Profiteers

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—Disclosure of huge bonuses paid out under government contracts by Jack & Heintz, Inc., Cleveland airplane parts company, prompted a demand on the House floor today that those responsible for such contracts be prosecuted.

DOESN'T BLAME LABOR

Rep. Andresen (R.) of Minnesota made the demand.

"The responsible parties should be promptly dealt with as criminals," Andresen declared, adding: "If this is a sample of government efficiency the war will cost twice as much as it should. If these stories are true I don't blame labor for demanding higher wages."

Rep. Young (D) of Ohio, also referring to the Jack & Heintz case told the House that unless Congress acts to limit war profits "this war will produce more millionaires than World War I."

All profits over 3 per cent should be taken by the government in taxation, he urged.

WASHINGTON, March 24 (INS)—War production chief Donald M. Nelson today told Congress he was "shocked to read of perfectly exorbitant profits" earned by a Cleveland (Ohio) war industry.

The production head referred to previous testimony the firm of Jack & Heintz Inc., was selling a $270 product to the government for $600 and had paid its 1300 officers and employes some $1,000,000 in Christmas and income tax bonuses.

Alien Jailed For 6 Months

Charged with failing to register under the alien registration act, a German national who had lived in this country under an alias for 12 years and a young Nova Scotian girl who married a citizen, drew jail sentences in federal court today.

William H. Schmidt, 52, alias William De Marco, who gave a Back Bay hotel as his address, was sentenced to six months in jail and Mrs. Pauline M. Curll, 26, of Worcester, was given a suspended sentence of three months. The penalties were imposed by Judge Charles Wyzanski.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER ON WAY, BUT NO TIRES FOR PUBLIC

WASHINGTON, March 24 (INS)—William L. Batt, director of the War Production Board Materials Division, told the Senate defense committee that there will be no tires for individuals even after the nation is producing 600,000 tons of synthetic rubber annually in 1943.

"The public—you and I—are not going to get tires in this emergency," he sold Sen. Connally (D.) of Texas during a hearing on the rubber situation.

Batt explained that "everything that rolls on wheels in England, Australia and India has got to be furnished by the United States."

He disclosed that Secretary of Commerce Jesse H. Jones has either let contracts or has letters of intent for production of 600,000 tons of synthetic rubber annually.

However, he said Jones turned down proposals late in 1941 for building synthetic rubber plants to produce 100,000 tons annually.

Chelsea Twins' Hunt Widened

Unable to find any trace of four Chelsea girls, two of them identical twins, who have been missing since Saturday, police of that city today asked aid of state police.

The twins are Mary and Mae Harnum, 15-year-old daughters of Mrs. Mabel Harnum of Fourth st., Chelsea, each 5 feet 4 inches tall, with dark complexion, dark brown hair and brown eyes. Both have scars on the foreheads and right cheeks and they wore red skirts with white blouses. Mary had a green coat, her sister a red reversible coat.

Police said two other sisters were thought to be in the twins' company, Betty Madigan, 16, and Margaret, 14, both of Broadway, Chelsea.

411 WASHINGTON STREET

Boy, 17, Buries Nine Pals in 21 Days at Sea

of pearl crucifix which had been given him by one of the chaplains at the Coco Solo base.

"I found myself under the boat and somewhere up on top when a torpedo hit the ship and exploded," Kelley continued. "The concussion was awful. It gave me an awful pain in the stomach.

"We go from under the boat, which was still upside down, when we heard firing from the submarine and the quartermaster who could read Morse saw a light which kept flashing out the letter 'A.' We got back under the boat to duck the bullets and then there were two more explosions that seemed to come from the ship. She went down after that and I guess it took about 30 minutes after the first shot for her to sink.

"When we thought the submarine had gone, we climbed up on the bottom of the boat and started counting and found out there was only 11 of us left alive. During the night Gus, a fireman, must have lost his hold because he wasn't there at daylight."

A naval officer asked if Kelley were too tired to go on. He smiled wanly, held up two fingers for the "V-victory" sign and insisted in his tired voice he was "all right."

"So in the morning," Kelley continued, "we managed to turn the boat over and the ten of us left climbed into it.

THIEF STOLE MILK

"We found we had lost the water when the boat turned over but we had 11 cans of condensed milk and plenty of chocolate and hard tack. As a matter of fact, for the first four or five days we were all cheerful and confident we'd be picked up.

"The quartermaster was the highest officer left, so he took charge and rationed the milk to one can a day for the ten of us. Later somebody stole some of the milk.

"And after that things began to get bad. Some of the boys began to talk out of their heads and nobody wanted to eat the chocolate and hardtack without water.

"When we finally got the idea some of us might be gone before we were rescued, we made an agreement that everybody would be kept aboard for 24 hours before they were buried just to be sure they were dead. I kept the agreement whenever I could.

PRAY IN VAIN FOR WATER

"We prayed for rain but it didn't come. One night we sighted a ship that seemed close but the quartermaster wouldn't let us send up any flares . . . because it might attract another sub. He signalled 'SOS' with his flashlight but the ship either didn't see us or they must have thought it a trap.

"I told you, didn't I, that four of us were rowing with one on the rudder while the rest kept pouring water on us and bailing. We made a sail out of the cover and kept toward the west hoping to make land somewhere in Central America.

"I was the biggest man in the boat and I weighed 185 pounds so I was able to keep going when some of the rest of them gave out.

(There had been no opportunity to weigh him in the hospital, but he looked as if he must have lost 40 or 50 pounds.)

"My buddy, Wenzel, was the first to go. He was weak and shaking and I guess we had been drifting about a week when he died."

Somewhere in succeeding days, they drifted near two small coral islands. They got so cuose they tried to land but the current was against them. They were in shoal water and some went over the side to push the boat but their feet were so lacerated by the sharp rocks they were forced to abandon the attempt.

One day they sighted a plane overhead but were not seen by the fliers. Another time they saw a small freighter which did not see them.

Later they ran into a bed of kelp.

"We ate some of the sea-weed and it tasted pretty good. Some of the boys caught some minnows in the sea weed and ate them.

"Part of the time we were followed by sharks. Some of them even came up and snapped the oars. We tried to catch a sand shark but we weren't able to get him."

Kelley grimly revealed that the cook, who had $163 in his pocket finally lost his mind. He stood up and shouted:

"I'm going across the street to buy some pineapples."

Before they could stop him, he stepped over the side and disappeared.

Two Spaniards in the boat forgot their English as the end neared. One jumped overboard and Kelley buried the other.

For several days they floated in sight of land they did not recognize, but wind, weather and currents frustrated their efforts to approach shore. One put on his lefebt and said he was going to swim for it. He went over the side and swam out of sight.

KEPT CORPSE 36 HOURS

"I don't think he made it," Kelley said.

"The last man to die was Bill (William McCoy, 37, Chester, Pa.), and I kept him with me for 36 hours before I buried him.

"After I buried him I laid down in the boat and tried to make myself comfortable so I could die as easily as possible. It seemed like I had been there only about 15 minutes until I felt the boat bumping against something and heard someone yelling a foreign language. It was the banana boat that rescued me (the Annetta I, a coastwise vessel).

On the Annetta they put him aboard a U. S. naval boat, which took him to the Coco Solo base hospital.

That was March 14, 21 days after his ship had been sunk.

"Now that Wenzel is gone, all I want to do is get out of here and join the Navy," he concluded.

"The time has come," the Walrus said. "to talk of many things ---"

ALICE IN WONDERLAND

IF the carpenter and his talkative pal were in the railroad business today, they could still talk about "ships and shoes and sealing wax and cabbages and Kings." They could also talk about troops and tanks and wear-worn tires and streamlined trains and seats.

In the years B. P. H. (before Pearl Harbor) if anyone suggested a railroad--much less YOUR railroad would want to talk about even attempting to dictate your travel habits, instead of welcoming you (almost with a band) on any train on which you choose to ride, we'd have replied the guy was "balmy."

In those days (remember —???) automobile salesmen were as numerous as the flowers in the Spring (tra la) and even the mail-order people would send you 2 or 20 tires on tick.

We announce—with more than regret- that effective April 1 we've got to eliminate a stop at Portland on one trip of the "Flying Yankee." War's responsible.

HERE ARE THE FACTS

Lots of you have been asking us, "What about train service this Summer?" Frankly, we don't know. What we tell you today might change as early as tomorrow. All available equipment and hauling power must be concentrated on keeping main lines open for greatly increased freight business and nullifying Hitler's efforts to disrupt our normal flow of fuel and supplies into Northern New England. For this and other reasons it is imperative that no new passenger schedules be added in these war-time days.

SO HERE'S THE LINE-UP AS TO HOW EXISTING TRAINS AND EQUIPMENT MUST BE USED, ON OUR SYSTEM

1st Military movements, troops, etc. (They're your boys and ours and we intend to ride them in the best there is.)

2nd Home-work-home movements of workers in defense war plants and business commuters. (Tires or no tires these folks have just got to get to work.)

3rd Necessary long-distance business travel.

4th Pleasure and vacation travel. (Don't get too down-hearted, we haven't cancelled our popular week-end and Sunday excursions to the beaches, lakes and mountains yet, and we hope to run at least some of them this Summer and Fall.)

Commencing April 1 and continuing for 11 weeks—until June 19th, the noon trip of the "Flying Yankee" from Boston will run express to Lewiston. It will not stop at Portland.

Passengers from Boston to Portland have a choice of the 9:40 a. m. or 1:15 p. m. trains, both carrying DeLuxe coaches.

The "Flying Yankee" has but 130 seats (and we just can't stretch it.) Since tire and gasoline saving, anywhere from 150 to 200 passengers have attempted, some days, to travel on the noon trip from Boston. We have been selling 30 to 50 seats from Boston to Portland. This has excluded many who wanted to go beyond Portland and they've had to wait 5 hours, or, if they were going to Aroostook County points 9½ hours before they could get another train. In the case of the Aroostook County people it's meant traveling all night, too, instead of getting home for supper.

By eliminating the Portland stop we hope to be able to take care of all those wanting to go beyond. Portland-bound passengers can get another train leaving only an hour and 15 minutes later

For the present there will be no change in WESTBOUND schedules of the "Flying Yankee." The streamliner will leave Portland for Boston at 8:30 a. m. It will leave Bangor at 5:15 p. m., Waterville at 6:41 p. m., Lewiston at 7:44 p. m. and Portland at 8:40 p. m. for Boston. It will continue to leave Boston for Portland at 11:35 p. m

BUT, commencing April 1, when the 130 seats are sold on ANY trip—there will be no substitute service, so we urge, MAKE YOUR RESERVATIONS and BUY YOUR TICKETS early.

For many years, the following paragraph has been carried in our time table:—"Schedules herein are subject to change without notice." This will be particularly true from now until the war is won. We shall make every effort to tell you of necessary changes in advance.

M'ARTHUR, SURE OF OWN ABILITY, PLAYS SLASHING GAME OF WARFARE

attack, "Hit 'em hard and keep on hitting 'em" within the limitations of his power.

His tactics were those of a fast, aggressive middleweight boxer against a slower, massive, and more powerful heavyweight. He kept flicking, stabbing and jabbing, never letting his big adversary set his feet solidly for a full roundhouse wallop

MacArthur sent his heroic soldiers infiltrating behind Jap lines, blowing their billets apart with hand grenades, ambushing unsuspecting columns with sprays of machine gun fire, blasting their headquarter commands and creating a confusion which ate into the core of their morale. His father's estimate proved accurate — "under pressure of assault he (the Jap) becomes irresolute and befuddled."

Another vulnerable spot in the Jap's makeup he discovered. The Jap did not like artillery fire. From experience he know that the Nippo had never known intensive, accurate artillery fire, either in the long wars with Manchuria, China and the archipelagoes of the China seas. The artillery they had faced was little more than small-caliber mountain and mobile guns.

They had never been pounded savagely with heavy shells.

"The Japanese," said British Gen. Wavell after the loss of Malaya, "is adapted to swift, hard-hitting attack built around a fanatical disregard for life and numbers. They have never faced intensive artillery fire. We, like the Chinese, had very little artillery of large calibre. Only in Bataan, where Gen. MacArthur concentrated his guns in a compact half moon, has the Jap tasted the heat of real artillery. He can't take it."

MacArthur realized, too, that troops trained only to attack are seldom emotionally equipped to withstand constant, heavy artillery fire.

DOSES OF ARTILLERY

So he gave them concentrated doseages of shrapnel from his 75's, and heavy fragmentation shells from his 105's and 155's, and short-range, high-looping projectiles from his trench mortars. The Jap didn't like it. His fatalistic philosophies, fashioned on the premise of glorious, headlong charges and drowning the enemy by force of numbers, did not include the nerve-wearing patience of being held at bay and being pounded to a pulp behind his own lines.

Morale began to leak away, and the Jap's artificially whipped-up frenzy dwindled from a torrent to a trickle, to a drip, while they stayed glaring and panting across the rocky gorges and palm jungles. Finally their commanding general, overwhelmed at failure and losing that most prized of all Jap possessions, "face," committed hari-kiri in the apartment of the Manila hotel which had formerly been MacArthur's. Tokyo sent its ace, Gen. Tomoyuki Tamashita, to conquer MacArthur.

Tokyo also dispatched many thousands of additional troops to augment the riddled remnants of the 200,000 which ringed Bataan like a jackal pack. Tokyo, at any price, was determined to erase this stumble block to its otherwise triumphant march.

APPEAL TO IMAGINATION

MacArthur has more than the gift of electric decision, a technical knowledge of battle method and a sixth sense for out-guessing an enemy. He has an appeal to the imagination of his soldiery that evokes from them a fanatical loyalty and belief in his leadership. For the average soldier is often contemptuous of his general and inclined to ridicule him with obscenity. Yet, while the doughboys of the previous war were singing that ribald ditty,

"Oh the General got the croix de guerre, parlay-voo,
"Oh the General got the croix de guerre
"But the so-and-so was never there,
"Hinky dinky parlay-voo."

The soldiers of the 42nd division never pinned that one on MacArthur.

They knew he was there, because they could see him in the front lines. He was called by neighboring officers "the D'Artagnan of the A. E. F." and the Buck Private's Gary Cooper," but whether in sharkskin or shorts, khaki or cutaway, none doubted his courage or the fact that he was a tough, shellback fighter.

"Boy, take a good look," one grizzled top sergeant said to a new casual who had just joined the Rainbow, "there goes plenty of soldier for any man's army."

His men, even the chronic "goldbricks" which infest any army, fought harder for the general who wore three wound stripes on his left cuff and 13 decorations on his breast for gallantry under fire, than for any other general in the A. E. F.

NOT ALL PUBLISHED

Not all that MacArthur radioed from Bataan in his nightly dispatches to Washington has been published, merely the close-clipped sketch of day-to-day action. But from reliable sources one learns that his gift for words, his flair for dramatizing incidents, as well as his sound military understanding, has made his communiques artful texts which, in some later peace-time, will make pulse-stirring and historical reading for future America.

Words are among his gift and he used them on more than one occasion to lick the Jap, allowing propaganda yarns to trickle through to the U. S. about his soldiers contributing a month's pay per man to a "Bomber for Bataan Fund" and how one, lone P-40, riddled with shrapnel holes and little more than a flying sieve was called affectionately "Our Air Force."

Day after day this single fighter droned over the Jap lines on reconnaissance missions while MacArthur prepared to snap his trap, and while, in the humid jungles where his engineers had built an invisible airdrome, mechanized grease-monkeys sweated over a handful of pursuit planes. Long days of patching and transposing gadgets from one tattered ship to another had salvaged a half dozen fighters.

Finally came the day when they were ready. Engines in the P-40's snorted, sneezed and broke into cavernous growls. Down the concealed runways through the palm and banana tracts they waddled, while the Japs' listening posts wondered. It was too late then. By that time the P-40s, each converted to carry a rack of bombs under its fuselage, were in the air and moaning over the hills toward Subic Bay, where Jap transports were lying at anchor, secure in the notion that there were no enemy aircraft left on the island.

LET GO BOMBS

Doing a job they were never built to do, the ragbag squadron zoomed down on the transports, letting go their bombs at low level and whipping up again. The dull "crump-crump" of the heavy capsules echoed over the hills to the men in their foxholes and barricades. Three transports, each caught while loaded with Jap troops, were sunk with heavy loss of life. Thirty thousand tons of shipping was sunk without U. S. loss.

MacArthur's propaganda stories, heard smugly by Tokyo and relayed back to the Jap command at Luzon, had gotten in their work.

(In tomorow's article Austen Lake reveals how it was no accident that tribesmen of the Philippines, re calcitrant before his coming, are fighting so courageously and loyally with the U. S. Army.)

MacArthur's Aide Tells Own Story of Sea Dash

By C. YATES McDANIEL

U. S. HEADQUARTERS, Australia, March 24 (AP)—The full story of Gen. MacArthur's hazardous voyage from the Philippines was told today by the supreme commander's spokesman, who emphasized MacArthur did not escape from Bataan but "came through to a greater task" in compliance with a presidential order.

Col. LeGrand Diller told newspapermen that MacArthur's fighting race against time, darkness and Japanese warplanes and warships was vindication for the general's long fight for recognition of motor torpedo boats.

Some advisers, Diller said, urged MacArthur to use a submarine to make his way to Australia, but the general and United States Navy Capt. John D. Bulkeley, commander of six "PT" boats which reached the Philippines shortly before the war, pinned their faith on the speedy craft.

Strong opposition was based on fear that the attempt was too desperate. This was Diller's story:

The sun dipped into the China sea out past Corregidor on March 11 when, in the deepening darkness, the forms of torpedo boats moved slowly through the minefields toward the entrance of Manila bay.

BULKELEY AT WHEEL

Bulkeley, who had won the Distinguished Service Cross for his work in the Philippines—the sinking of a 5000-ton Japanese ship—was at the wheel of the leading craft as the little convoy started the hazardous trip which some advisers had warned was a "fantastic venture."

But the general said:

"We go with the fall of the moon. We go during the ides of March."

It seemed strange after living in blackouts for three months to see automatic lighthouses operating. Along the shore (Japanese) signal lights were seen, flashing the warning of the approach of (what were presumed to be) enemy aircraft.

The roar of the "PT" boats was confusing even to the Japanese.

Just before the departure of the MacArthur convoy we received word of the presence of enemy warships in these waters, but we roared out into the night.

HEAVY SEAS

The boats pounded terrifically through heavy seas. The general was unable to stand on his feet. Everyone was soaked. Many of the party were violently seasick.

The boats kept well together until early in the morning when, still before dawn, they separated one by one in the darkness. When the rendezvous was reached at an early hour of March 12, only one boat was there at the designated hour.

The other boats pressed on individually in dangerous daylight open prey for surface ships and planes.

As the general's boat approached one of the islands in the rendezvous group, another which had arrived earlier was so convinced the approaching craft was the enemy's that it cleared its deck for action and "only the merest chance identified the general's boat in time to avoid opening fire with 50-caliber guns."

One of the boats had to be abandoned to continue the voyage later.

At the first rendezvous, where a submarine had arrived, many urged a transfer but MacArthur and Bulkeley pinned their faith on the speed boats.

The party members, therefore, were distributed among three boats, two of which pressed on in the night of the second day while the third, a late arrival, left later.

U. S. OFFICIAL

During the second night all three boats sighted Japanese destroyers but all slipped through by altering their courses and increasing their speed, thanks to the courage and skill of the navigators.

The two leading boats reached the second rendezvous at daybreak but the third did not arrive until noon.

The party assembled inland, awaiting planes from Australia, but the planes did not come that night or the next. Every moment party members feared some information of the desperate voyage would reach the enemy, whose planes were based only a half hour's flight away.

WORD COMES OF PLANES

Three nights and days were spent on the island rendezvous without enemy attacks materializing or rescue planes arriving.

Finally, word came that the planes were en route. Three were expected but only two came so it was decided to place the entire party in two planes, leaving behind baggage, arms and equipment.

With little more than the clothes they wore, the party stowed away in the two B-17's and took off about midnight of March 16.

They flew through the night but daylight still found the planes over Japanese-infested areas. Gunners and observers manned their stations, searching the skies for enemy fighters which, however, did not appear.

The big bombers landed finally at Darwin, just after an air raid alarm had sounded in the northern Australian port.

A hurried transfer was made there, the party had a quick bite to eat and was off again southward.

"Few not on the voyage can realize the fortitude, stamina and with which the general imbued determination to get through the entire group," Diller said.

"Mrs. MacArthur was a splendid soldier. She stood the trip very well."

CHINESE LINES PUSHED BACK IN BURMA

LONDON, March 24 (AP)—A considerable Japanese advance against the Chinese-held left flank of the Allied lines in Burma was acknowledged today in a Chinese communique reporting "vigorous fighting" seven miles south of Toungoo, one of the two key points in the British-Chinese position.

In the last official report on this sector, action was located along the Pyu river, which flows into the Sittang some 30 miles below Toungoo.

Today's communique acknowledged six Japanese air attacks on Toungoo yesterday, three of them against the Chinese troops which were said to be without air support.

However, American volunteer squadrons were reported to have carried out "two powerful and simultaneous attacks" on Japanese-held airfields in Thailand (Siam).

In the land fighting, the communique said, the Chinese were holding "original outpost lines" after being driven back by a reinforced enemy assault and then regaining their positions in a counter-attack.

France Copied Nazi Land Mines

RIOM, France, March 24 (AP)—The French general staff did not even order land mines until after seeing the "frightful ravages" caused by German mines among French troops in the French offensive of 1939, former Premier Daladier told the Riom court today.

Daladier, one of five on trial on charges of responsibility for France's defeat, spoke in answer to testimony by Lieut.-Gen. Joseph de la Porte du Theil, now commissioner-general of the compulsory youth labor service in the Petain government.

"The Germans had laid mines in the Meuse valley and I saw with my own eyes the frightful ravages they caused among our men.

"It was only then the general staff decided to order land mines, which were copies of the German mines."

Matsuoka Reported Jap Envoy to Vatican

LONDON, March 24 (AP)—The Paris radio broadcast a report today that Yosuke Matsuoka, former foreign minister, had been appointed Japanese ambassador to the Holy See while Cardinal Morelli would be apostolic delegate to Japan.

(No Cardinal Morelli is included in lists of the College of Cardinals.

(Matsuoka received instruction in the Christian Bible as a youth studying in California and Oregon and in his English speeches quotes freely from the Bible.)

Portable Air Raid Sirens, Cranked, Are the Latest

MONTEBELLO, Cal., March 23 (AP)—Those fellows carrying crank-operated mechanisms suspended from their necks aren't organ grinders. They're air raid wardens, and the mechanisms are air raid sirens.

The city bought 25 of them at $20 each, for use in outlying sections where the sound of the city's power-operated siren atop the City Hall may not penetrate.

A demonstration today showed the hand-operated sirens can be heard inside homes for a distance of a block.

MacARTHUR TO HELP PRESS GET NEWS

U. S. ARMY HEADQUARTERS Australia, March 24 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, though saying "I am an old censor myself," has pledged himself to get news for newspapermen covering his headquarters rather than suppress it.

The general's promise was made yesterday during his off the record discussion with correspondents and it was permitted to be published today.

"My main purpose," he said, "is not to suppress news but to get news for you.

"The reason for efforts by the United States and Australia to inform the public what is going on is that if it does not know the truth its imagination operates, thereby reducing confidence.

"Silence will begin to react against you. It therefore is a crime. It is important that the public should be told it can summon confidence and determination of purpose in support of the war effort.

"I want your help, without which we cannot get that maximum effort needed to win.

"I am an old censor myself. What I have said does not mean that what we give out here you have to take and use or that you are limited to canned news and cannot use your brilliancy.

"It does not mean you must abstain from criticism but I hope that before you criticize you will avail yourselves of the facts. If you do you will find most criticism disappears.

"When you start to tear down public confidence in military leaders you practically destroy an army.

"I am always glad to give you my full knowledge or opinion on any subject but as background only.

"Men will not fight and die without knowing what they are fighting and dying for.

"In the democracies it is essential that the public should know the truth."

Roxbury Boys' Club Victory Volunteers Join Junior Army

Victory Volunteers of the Roxbury Boys' Club, 80 Dudley st., Roxbury, will be inducted there tomorrow night in a program arranged by Manager Graham J. Norton.

RADIO INSTRUCTION—Junior Victory Army members of Boys' Club of Boston, Roxbury branch, are instructed in radio work by Ronald Jackson (center). They are Harold Chin (left) and Joseph Kelley.

The Victory Volunteers will include Junior Army recruits, 102 having enrolled recently with many more expected to enlist soon.

The Volunteers, whose ages range from 12 years up, are club members who have proved themselves worthy of service in time of emergency and who have chosen special duties they will fill.

Judge Lloyd and W. Miles, chief [illegible] Roxbury municipal court, [illegible] the volunteers, [illegible] membership cards and [illegible] on "Boys' Part in This Emergency."

Other speakers will be Arthur F. Burger, director of the Boys' Club of Boston; Manager Norton and Elton Mahoney, mayor of Roxbury, who will act as master of ceremonies. There will be a musical program and a movie.

The Volunteers will be enrolled in a number of divisions, including rookie rifle, messenger and bicycle. Others will serve as air raid wardens, fire wardens, salvage workers and police wardens.

HOLD BLACKOUT TESTS

The cooking class has already been organized to be used in with a blackout in which the clubhouse is used as an evacuation center. The club has held three blackout tests and one unexpected air raid alarm. In the latter the [illegible] were occupied and the club emptied and darkened in 3 minutes and 32 seconds.

The [illegible] Junior Secretary de[illegible] each 25 older boys as [illegible] are expected to be [illegible] officers in the Victory Volunteers. Members of the club staff [illegible] each division.

"There is a particular appeal to parents to co-operate in our plans," Burger said. "A little preparation now will save much in the way of shock and confused thinking when these boys face these problems themselves. It is vital that all boys be prepared for things to come."

NEW GROUP FORMED

Nancy Blaisdell, 129 Arlington st., Newton, a Junior Army member, is president of the newest group that has been formed of WVA patrolers. Other officers of this defense club are vice president, Nancy Olds; secretary, Lois MacDowell; assistant secretary, Mary Jane Bond and treasurer, Anne Sisty.

Nancy writes that this group is [illegible] to save on defense, collecting old toothpaste and shaving tubes for the tin salvage stations.

"Our dues are three cents a member," she writes. "When we get 60 cents we buy ten cent defense stamps. We already have six. We are learning to fold bandages and expect to get First Aid kits."

War Work Ends Play

WOMEN FILL 1200 AIR RAID WATCH POSTS

By ALICE BISSELL

Boston Evening American Staff Reporter

They wear no uniforms. They are seldom viewed on the job by the admiring public eye. For endless days their watches, so far, are devoid of excitement.

Why, then do women give freely and willingly of their time to serve with the Interceptor Command, that branch of civilian defense whose members perhaps rarely thought of may well be standing between us and disaster?

These it might be reminded, are the women now well over 160,000 of them who are keeping vigil in the 1200 posts throughout the area of the First Interceptor Command and whose warning of approaching enemy planes will send swift pursuit planes into action if there are such warnings.

WOMEN QUIZZED

To some of the women themselves, the Boston Evening American has gone for answers to the question as to what impelled them to volunteer for this branch rather than one which might be called by some more glamorous.

Mrs. Alan Steinert of Faverweather st, Cambridge is a housewife, the mother of three children. She joined the Interceptor Command because she thinks "it is the most vital part of defense work."

"It is little enough to do for the safety of our children," said Mrs. Steinert, who stands watch at the interceptor center from 2 to 6 p. m., four afternoons a week.

DAILY VOLUNTEER

Mary Logeis, 21, of Winthrop st., Medford, is a daily volunteer with the Interceptor Command and she says she is a member of the Women's Civilian Defense Corps. She volunteered because she is not employed and so has the time.

Cora Jacuzzi, 22 of Grove st., Westwood, a [illegible] and motor horsewoman would be attending various social functions there afternoons if it were not for the watch.

To these citizens in the view of Helen Clafin of Concord ave., Belmont have faded into insignificance now that there is work to do for the country.

Alien Deserters From Ship Held

In response to instructions from Atty.-Gen. Biddle in Washington, 40 alien seamen today were held at the East Boston immigration station after being rounded up by FBI agents and immigration inspectors.

The group, all deserters, are to face proceedings and be given the chance to re-ship on vessels of the Allied nations or be deported.

Most of the men left ships of the Allies and are part of a group of about 500 deserters throughout the United States who are hampering shipment of vital war supplies.

Australia Bishop Asks Wedding Ban For U. S. Soldiers

BRISBANE, March 24 (INS)—Declaring "these men didn't come to Australia to marry, they came to fight," Archbishop Duhig of Brisbane today advocated a complete marriage ban for soldiers of the United States forces while they are serving in the island continent.

Archbishop Duhig said that the Catholic Church already had moved to halt marriages of the Americans to Australian girls by refusing to celebrate such nuptials unless the principals involved could prove their freedom to marry and produce a written consent from the soldier's commanding officer.

More than 20 marriages of American soldiers to Australian girls after short friendships have been reported in recent weeks.

U. S. SUBMARINES RAISE TOLL OF JAP SHIPS TO 25

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—Far-ranging United States submarines were credited in naval records today with having sunk 25 Japanese ships, probably having sunk 10 more and done damage to six others.

This was the known bag for the skirs including the six ships reported last night as having been sunk or damaged in Japanese waters.

Previously a total of 22 enemy vessels had been reported sunk by submarine action in the western Pacific and last night's report of three destroyed raised this total to 25.

Nine had been reported probably sunk and last night's one raised this to 10.

Four had previously been reported damaged and this figure was increased to a total of six by last night's report.

The latest claims were that three more Japanese merchant ships, a 7,000-ton tanker, a 6000-ton ship and a 5000-ton freighter, were sunk; an enemy destroyer or anti-submarine vessel was probably sunk and two 2000-ton freighters were damaged.

All the actions announced in last night's communique occurred "in Japanese waters," indicating that offensive actions are being pressed ever closer to the island empire.

The new victories brought the official American tally of Japanese ships destroyed or damaged to 118 since the start of the war. The telling blows were struck by the Navy's surface ships, submarines and planes. In addition, Australian forces have accounted for 65 Jap vessels and the Dutch have taken a toll as yet undetermined.

U. S. Consul in Java Loses 50 Pounds Fleeing Japs

By STEWART LEGGE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MELBOURNE, March 24—Dr. William H. Foote, United States consul general in Batavia when the Japanese invaded the Dutch island, was safe in Melbourne today—but 50 pounds under weight after harrowing experiences on his flight to Australia.

He left the consulate on 30 minutes' warning from an American Army officer that the Japanese were closing in on Batavia and the only possessions he carried were the clothes he wore and a suitcase filled with official papers.

In a 500-mile automobile trip from Batavia to an embarkation point Japanese parachutists were dropping beside the road almost continuously, he declared, and the sea voyage to Australia was made in a small vessel whose deck was crowded with refugees sheltered from the driving tropical rainstorms.

SENT WIFE ON AHEAD

Five of eight vessels which left the Java port were to pedoed by Japanese submarines, a most he fore they were out of sight of land Dr. Foote reported.

"I got out by the skin of my teeth," he recounted. "We were in a bad spot in Batavia, for we had no way of knowing the seriousness of the situation after transfer of military headquarters to Bandoeng.

"I had sent my wife out eight days before. One midnight I had a telephone call from a U. S. officer at Bandoeng who said: 'Bill, get out for your life and don't even wait five minutes.'

"I threw the most important papers in a suitcase and burned the rest. Then my Malay chauffeur filled the car with tins of gasoline—inside and out—and we got started. I sat in the back seat terrified.

GUN IN HIS HAND

"I had a revolver in my left hand. It was a nightmare. Japanese parachutists were landing on both sides of the road throughout the night. With all the gasoline a single bullet would have done for us.

"But somewhow we reached the port, and I was able to talk my way aboard a 20-knot Dutch freighter. Five of the eight ships that started were sunk. Our extra speed saved us from the submarines.

"All the passengers were on deck throughout the eight-day trip. I did the best I could to keep warm and dry with a thin cotton blanket.

"It's a great relief to be safe. For weeks in Batavia I was awakened constantly at night by the 'zeep' of bullets from Japanese planes. It was the same during the day, and I couldn't eat. I suppose I'm a terrific coward, but I couldn't sit at the table and take my food. I lost 50 pounds in seven weeks.

"What little haid I have was usually standing on end."

Dr. Foote said he would return to the State Department for duty.

Cripps Speeds India Parleys

NEW DELHI, India, March 24 (AP)—Undaunted by the outwardly reserved attitude of India's Moslems, Sir Stafford Cripps today held a series of conferences aimed at selling the country's diversified elements on a single plan of self government.

The British emissary met the governors of the provinces of Madras, Bombay and Bengal this morning after attending a meeting of Viceroy Linlithgow's executive council yesterday and receiving Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, the commander-in-chief, last evening.

Extra! Ol' Perfesser Turns Newspaperman

Kay Kyser has done most everything in music, the films and entertainment—and now the Ol' Perfesser is turning newspaper man with the Boston Evening American-Daily Record and Sunday Advertiser in the interest of the boys in the service.

The quizzical Perfesser will have his whole College of Musical Knowledge at Boston Garden on Easter Monday night, April 6, to do another good turn for the armed forces.

Kay Kyser

These newspapers have raised a fund to build a Buddies' Clubhouse in Boston and Kay and his gang are going to put on a show to raise funds for the furnishings.

No other personality of radio and screen has worked harder than Kyser to bring entertainment to the nation's armed force camps. He was one of the first to realize what a little light-hearted amusement would mean to the men in training and under arms.

Together with Jerry Lester, the comic, who was making a tour of Eastern camps with "Hit Parade" at about the same time, Maestro Kyser shares the honor of being the first radio personality to go right into the camps themselves.

Since then Kay Kyser and his troupe—including handsome Harry Babbitt, sassy Sully Mason, Ish Kabibble, delectable Dorothy Dunn and tuneful Trudy Erwin—have appeared at many additional posts and camps.

So on Easter Monday night they will be working again for the service boys, through these newspapers, the Ol' Perfesser In Person and his College of Musical Knowledge—and his "Stu-u-u-dents," made up that night of the throng attending the joy fiesta at Boston Garden

CHANCE TO DANCE

And on that night, for the first time in New England, the public will have an opportunity, after the laugh show, to dance to Kay Kyser's "Makes You Want to Dance" music.

Tickets will go on sale tomorrow at the Boston Garden and Arena. They will be available at $1 and $1.50, with a few box seats to be had at $2.20 each.

Later on there will be a more complete announcement of plans for the Buddies Clubhouse, but meanwhile, chillun, set your affairs in order for Monday night, April 6 File all dull care and leave everything free for Boston Garden. Be there in good time and you'll hear the Ol' Perfesser's voice open up the fun night, with his familiar:

"Evenin' Folks—How Y'All!"

The "Ol' Perfesser's" latest film, "Playmates", with John Barrymore, Ginny Simms, Lupe Velez and Patsy Kelly, is now playing at the Paramount and Fenway Theatres.

TOP TIP PRIZE AWARDED TO MEDFORD MAN

Because an alert Medford man called the American-Record Tip Editor at Liberty 4000 with news that a survivor of the U.S.S. Truxton saved by a miracle, was at a local hospital, these papers had an exclusive news and picture "beat" on the story and because of that, the Medford man was awarded the top Tipster prize of the week—a check for $10.

A "quick-on-the phone" Hough's Neck woman, who called first with a tip on a tragic fire which took three lives there was awarded second prize of $5 and a similar $5 prize went to a Braintree man for tip on a naval officer, reported "lost at sea," who was in reality enjoying a furlough at home.

SPOTTED SURVIVORS

These were the top awards in the contest for tipsters last week, with a total of $100 being given away along with 50 pairs of guest seats for the showing of Carc Lombard's last picture, "To Be or Not to Be," at Loew's State and Orpheum theaters.

Prizes of $3 each went to a Cambridge woman for tip on arrival here of survivors of a sunken ship and to a Saxonville woman for tip on a fatal fire in Hopkinton.

Nineteen persons were awarded prizes of $2 each—a Wakefield man for tip on blood donors from the General Electric Co.; a Dorchester man for tip on a baby born with a tooth; a North Woburn man for tip on an auto crash; a Medford woman for tip on a Wilmington boy serving under MacArthur.

A Dorchester man for tip on a ship sinking; a Wakefield woman for tip on a Melrose fire rescue; a Wrentham woman for use of photos of Jap planes, a Dorchester man for tip on a fire; a Newton man for tip on hanging of a company service flag; a Gloucester man for tip on a fire; a Dorchester woman for tip on a "bridge party" robbery.

$5 COLLECT $1

A Back Bay man for tip on a local hero with MacArthur; an Auburndale woman for tip on capture of a robber; a Cambridge woman for tip on a clay pit rescue; a Dorchester man for tip on a cop shot in tussle with a soldier; a Brookline man for tip on a "blackout" death; a Dorchester woman for tip on a will fight; a Dorchester man for tip on a subway tieup, and another Dorchester man for tip on capture of a boy car thief.

Thirty-six others were awarded $1 each for tips on news, human interest features and picture possibilities.

6 in Family Stricken After Eating Cake

Stricken violently ill today, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Charest, 10 Walden st., Roxbury, and four of their children were believed to be victims of food poisoning. The attending physician ordered analysis of cake eaten by the stricken persons.

The entire family, with the exception of 1-year-old Bernard who had not eaten the cake, was under the care of Dr. Harold Murphy, Centre st., Roxbury.

Miss Edna Loveland, a neighbor, summoned police when the family's plight was discovered.

Mrs. Charest, 35, told police she first suffered an attack yesterday shortly after eating the cake she made. Charest, 39, was stricken early today and soon afterward the four youngsters became ill.

The child victims were Richard, 9; William, 7; Alfred, Jr., 6, and Margaret, 4. All were responding to treatment.

Gas poisoning was discounted since no leak could be found.

Thief Batters Aged Woman

A 72-year-old Dorchester woman was the victim today of a vicious attack and robbery while kneeling in prayer in St. Ambrose's Church, Fields Corner.

Mrs. Minnie Waterman of Adams st., Dorchester, told police she did not particularly notice the young man who crept up behind her, thinking him another worshipper.

But suddenly, the youth, who was about 20 years old, struck her over the head with same instrument and stole $26 from her purse.

When Mrs. Waterman regained her strength, she told the Rev. John R. Wall at the rectory. Fr. Wall called police.

Mrs. Waterman was bleding badly and so shaken that she could not speak coherently. Police took her to City Hospital for treatment of concussion and lacerations of the scalp.

Fr. Wall returned immediately to the church, where he asked the half-dozen people there if they had noticed her. None of them had seen the attack*, although Mrs. Waterman was near the altar-rail.

Justice Drops Blindfold And Sees His Side, Too

Ed Sperry had his troubles, and that was why he landed in municipal court today, charged with failing to answer three traffic tags.

There was sympathy on Judge Carr's face as Sperry recited his troubles, and all agreed with relieved sighs when the judge finally placed the case on file.

In the first pace, Sperry moved to Chestnut st., Randolph, a while ago. It was a small farm, he said, "and, Judge, you don't know the troubles I've had."

Busy getting the place in order, he began to wonder why he never got any mail—even a bill. So he went to the postoffice and inquired, and was informed that he had to set up a mail box before mail could be delivered. It was the law.

WRONG TYPE BOX

Sperry paid 59 cents for a mail box and set it up. But days went by and still he got no mail and he began to worry again.

Once more he went to the postoffice and reported he had set up a mail box, in which, to be sure there should be mail by now yet there was none. Ed felt almost like the forgotten man.

He said they told him they knew he had a mail box now, but the trouble was it did not answer postoffice specifications. A chap had to have a Sears-Roebuck mail box, the clerk explained, because only Sears-Roebuck boxes answer requirements of Washington.

WITH FLAG FLYING

Of course, Sperry is an agreeable citizen, so he purchased the designated mail box and set that up.

More days went by and still he received no mail in the box and he began to feel baffled indeed. Again he went to the postoffice and they told him yes, they knew he had the right box, but it seemed he hadn't set the flag correctly on the box. It was neither up nor down and it was pretty important that the flag be set correctly.

So Sperry went back to his little farm and he set the flag as directed.

The thing worked like magic. Sperry got some mail. It was a court summons, issued against him for failing to answer three pink traffic slips which had been mailed to him at various dates.

Tobin Dates Pay Raises March 1

Mayor Tobin, tanned and healthy after a three-weeks' Florida vacation, brought joy to 12,666 Boston and Suffolk County employes with his announcement today pay raises recently granted will be retroactive to March 1.

The increases will be paid on a separate payroll in April, Tobin said. Two salary rosters will be kept, he said, the regular weekly roll and a war emergency payroll to be disbursed on a monthly basis. The April payment will include the increase for March.

All employes earning $1400 or less were voted $150 annual raises by the city council on Tobin's recommendation. Those receiving betwee $1500 and $2300 were given $100 increases and employes getting up to $2400 were given 080 annual increases.

Hub Lacks U. S. Commissioner

Because one United States commissioner died suddenly and the other is a lieutenant-colonel in the Army, there is no one now in Boston empowered to issue federal warrants, it was learned today in municipal court through an FBI agent.

Elwood Lambert of Williamsport, Pa., a defense worker was found to have no draft card in his possession when arrested Saturday for drunkeness.

Chief Justice F. Delano Putnam, filed the drunkeness charge and released the defendant. The federal agent then re-arrested him without a warrant and took him to federal court

Best of Friends Must Fight--- So It Seems

Now, little things like a fight and a fractured skull—what do they matter where friendship is concerned?

For 20 years—both agreed—Sabino Nazzaro of Causeway st. and Pasquale Pissano of Endicott st., both North End, have been chums.

But today Nazzaro was in municipal court, charged with assault and battery on Pissano Feb. 21, when they got into a fight while drinking and Pissano went to the ground and suffered injuries.

On the witness stand, Pissano was reluctant to say that his friend had struck him to make him fall.

Pissano said they had been drinking and had become involved in "some silly little argument," which he did not explain.

When Nazzaro was called in his own defense, he said he agreed absolutely with everything Pissano had said.

Chief Justice Putnam found Nazzaro guilty and fined him $25. When the defendant could not pay he was placed in the dock. This disturbed Pissano, who inquired what that move meant, and when informed Nazzaro could not pay, Pissano promptly produced the money.

The pair left the courtroom, chummy as ever.

OPERA MATINEES have the jump on the Easter parade in showing us the new spring fashions . . . all the forehanded ladies who have already done their spring shopping turn out for the matinees in the latest of Easter finery.

At "La Traviata," Mrs. F. Ward Paine was the essence of chic in a simply tailored navy wool bolero suit topped by a spic and span white pique hat trimmed with a perky navy taffeta bow in front. . . The hat was clouded by a wisp of navy veiling dotted with white chenille . . . Her adorable blonde daughters, Isabelle and Martha, accompanied her and papeared to be getting a big kick out of their first opera, to say nothing of the big glasses of lemonade they sipped during intermission . . . They were dressed alike in scarlet velveteen trimmed with bands of white embroidery and topped by identical polo coats.

Another modish spring costume was worn by Mrs. William C. Cox, who attended with Mr. Cox and her uncle, Guy Bancroft . . . Her bolero suit of navy had a blouse and lapels of powder blue crepe and her small straw hat was bedecked with roses and blue forget-me-nots.

POST DEB JEAN CLARK, to whom opera means a great deal since she is studying music and is head of the Junior League Glee Club, wore a tailored suit of French blue pin stripped in white . . . During intermission she chatted with Mary Helen Brown and Mrs. Preston Stephenson . . . Mary Helen was bareheaded above a draped black crepe afternoon dress and blonde lynx jacket . . . Mrs. Stephenson adorned her caramel wool dress with bright costume jewelry.

Representing the post deb set among the box seaters were Lucy Cochrane in a navy serge suit piped with white crepe; Olivia Ames in one of the new black afternoon dresses with cuffs and hem of black lace. . . Others attending were Mrs. Hamilton Osgood with her little daughter Diana; Mrs. J. Harleston Parker, Mrs. Peter Thompson of New York (the former Becky Ames of Commonwealth ave.), who wore a black wool dress with a brooch formed of three circlets of diamonds.

Future Bride Honored

In a setting of gay spring flowers which decorated the beautiful Karl Adams mansion on Beacon st., Linda Terry and her fiance, Norman Sturgis, Jr., received the best wishes of many friends at a tea given last weekend to celebrate their engagement.

The party was given by Norman's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Adams, Jr., (Harlette Sturgis) of Framingham.

The attractive bride-to-be, who came over from New York to visit her future mother in-law, Mrs Norman Sturgis, received in a becoming dress of light blue and black with a corsage of gardenias and white fuchsia. It was one of those informal enjoyable parties at which everyone wandered about chatting to their fellow guests, and due to the simplicity of the occasion there were no pourers.

Norman's uncle, Joseph Woods, came on from his new position in Washington to offer his best wishes, and was accompanied to the party by his two young daughters.

Linda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor Terry of New York. She is doing her bit in the war effort by learning to fly and is also an apprentice teacher at the Brearley School. Norman is a member of Squadron A Guard Ass'n and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Woods of Boston and Dr. and Mrs. William Codman Sturgis of New York.

There are no immediate plans for the wedding.

My [illegible] and I went to school together about four and a half years. When I was [illegible] she became interested in and with different boys I became angry and we had arguments about it when I came to visit her on week-ends.

We finally broke up and I wanted a friend in a daze for several weeks I pleaded with her to forgive me but she won't believe me when I say I won't act that way again.

She has moved away now, and I haven't seen her for several months. But, Miss Fairfax, I love her and want her back. I've also heard that she still cares for me but is too proud to make up. What can I do to strengthen [illegible] in a dignified way?

The Masked Jury

SOLDIER'S FIANCEE LOVES ANOTHER MAN

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY: I have two men in my life. One—Mr. A.—is in the Army. He loves me and wants me to promise to marry him.

The other, Mr. B, I love very much and I think he loves me but he has not committed himself. The question is, should I tell A the truth concerning my feelings for B, now that A is away in the Army and needs all the happiness we should give our men who, under the best conditions, are lonely, homesick and yearning for their families and girl friends back home?

Or should I try to put off giving a definite answer? I don't wish to encourage him, neither do I wish to hurt him.

Shall I continue to put off telling the soldier boy the truth?

HOW THE JURY VOTED
Women—Yes, One; No, five.
Men—Yes, One; No, five.

SOLDIER: No. If she wants to be fair she should tell him the truth. That soldier will get along without her.

TELEPHONE OPERATOR: No She's trying to have her cake and eat it, too. You can't get away with it in these days.

HOTEL HOSTESS. No I think little Miss Coquette should come clean and give the soldier boy a chance to play the field a little more.

ORCHESTRA LEADER: Yes, it keeps him happy. It's just as much fun being kidded sometimes as knowing the truth.

HAIRDRESSER No. That would be playing a mean trick on the soldier.

CAR WASHER: No. If she thinks that's the way to be patriotic she must have been reading Axis propaganda.

POTTERY DECORATOR (woman): Yes. I think it would be a good idea to go on writing to the soldier but not to let him think she loves him.

RADIO EXECUTIVE No. I'm sure the young man in the Army would rather hear the truth from the girl herself than from someone else.

HOUSEWIFE No. When the truth has to be faced sooner or later I've always found it's better to get it over with before complications set in.

MAGAZINE DEALER—No. The soldier will think a lot more of her and women in general if she tells him what's cooking.

STENOGRAPHER—No. But I'd like to add a little word of personal advice and tell her she had better make sure of that other fellow.

CLERK—No. Women sure go out of way to try to be popular at somebody else's expense. And that's what she's doing.

OUR DAILY CITATION: To President Roosevelt for his praise of Boston's inspiring victory celebration a week ago. The nation needs an enthusiastic outlook in this period of wartime emergency. The President wisely encourages it.

IN ITS SEARCH for money to finance the war, the Ways and Means Committee of the national House of Representatives is studying Sales Tax legislation.

The Hearst newspapers believe that taxpayers should be relieved by vast cuts in the non-military expenditures of government, and these include national, State and municipal.

The Hearst newspapers also believe that the taxpayers, necessarily hard-pressed, should be aided by the most scientific and equitable tax program that can be devised.

In the present crisis there is certainly no room for demagogy and punitive measures incidental to revenue raising.

Accordingly, the Federal Sales Tax, which these newspapers have long advocated, presents itself for fresh consideration.

Unlike unreasonably high and excessive personal and corporate income taxes which often destroy the incentive to produce, a widely diffused Sales Tax does a minimum of damage to the national economic system.

It does not impair the machinery of production, which is essential for turning out the tools of victory.

Moreover, the general manufacturers' Sales Tax, as Canadian experience has demonstrated, is a rich yielder of revenue.

It is a democratic and candid tax which is spread widely among all groups of self-supporting Americans.

And, what is equally important, the Federal Sales Tax punctures the demagogic lie that poorer people have been getting a free ride on the cost of government.

This has never been true, for the corporations are in reality only tax collectors and they recoup the tax funds out of their receipts from the sale of goods and services to 30,000,000 American families.

When all the gainfully employed know that they are contributing to the cost of government, they are likely to hold public officials to a higher standard of performance and economy.

But the great merit of the Federal Sales Tax lies in the fact that it keeps the wheels of industry turning.

Although no single tax is sufficient in war time, the Federal Sales Tax should be made a part of the nation's money-raising system.

BE CAUTIOUS, GIRLS! That is the essence of the advice which Dr. Sara Stinchfield-Hawk is giving young women at the University of Southern California.

The learned doctor says:

"Beware of the glamour of the uniform. It dramatizes romance in a way it would not in time of peace.

"Girls should avoid taking a 'noble sacrifice' attitude in marrying a service man during wartime. This does not augur well for the future.

"It's best to know a man for more years than the time he has worn a uniform. Then don't marry without talking it over with your parents.

"Most important of all, marriage as a widow is less likely than if a girl is single, for the average man does not care to support another man's children."

Older people will appreciate these gems of wisdom, but youth can hardly be expected to show comparable enthusiasm.

Military uniforms have always been attractive to young women, and the appeal will undoubtedly continue, despite sage utterances.

Most girls marry soldiers because they are in love. They do not consider that they are making "noble sacrifices." And they certainly do not fancy themselves as war widows.

That is why Boston has had more marriages this year than in any corresponding period in its history.

Cupid is a wily fellow. None can regiment him. And none can restrain him.

So, perhaps, the average American would do better to worry less about war marriages and more about war victories. We cannot have too many of the latter.

IT IS TOO LATE to recover the millions of tons of scrap metal which Americans shipped to Japan during the past decade.

The chief worry today is to keep that metal from coming back to us in the form of shells and bullets.

But not all of this country's scrap iron and steel crossed the Pacific. Millions of tons of it stayed at home, and it is still at home.

That's why the United States is cracking down on junk hoarders and telling them they must turn their "treasures" over to defense production—or else!

So serious is the situation that Mr. John I. Taylor, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Salvage Committee, is talking about tearing down iron fences around churches and the Boston Public Garden.

This may not be necessary if every person in this State collects ALL the useless iron and steel on his property and sells it IMMEDIATELY.

Or if municipalities and transportation companies get busy and begin digging up the abandoned trolley line rails in which thousands of tons of the most valuable steel are buried.

When you see old metal gathering rust and dust, find the owner and say to him:

"Your country needs this. Give it up NOW!"

THE SUGGESTED cold cure of hot toddy, aspirin and 12 hours in bed worked for me. Am certainly glad I got rid of that cold, first I had in five years. My pup was very worried. He kept looking at me with concern and anxiety pouring from his big brown eyes.

PLEASE NOTE: Willie Hunter, the golfer, fought in World War I from the beginning to the end and was the only man of his original company to survive the struggle . . . Long engagements are trying But how about the girls who go around with fellows for years who never even propose? I knew a fellow in Brooklyn who went steadily with a young woman for 15 years before he proposed to her . . . "I can see that you are a meat eater," writes a Los Angeles vegetarian. "It has been truly said that eating meat began from man's wanderings when he left some garden spot and turned cannibal. A 20th century human who eats meat or hunts animals for sport is emotionally and mentally moronic." Listen, mister, I don't mind you picking on me for eating meat but why bring my beauty into the discussion? Ann Sheridan eats meat, and what's the matter with her face? Lana Turner likes lamb chops, and if that is what makes her face look that way, maybe a lot of other girls should eat lamb chops.

THIS AND THAT: The talented and good-looking literary light, Zona Gale, did not marry until she was 54 years of age . . . As for the angle that the ideal lover is "tall, dark and handsome," or "tall, tan and terrific," Lord Byron was only 5 feet 8½ inches tall. Casanova, however, was a six-footer . . . About 60,000,000 gallons of gasoline are sold daily in normal times. So, with the government collecting one cent per gallon tax, you may get an idea of how much in taxes will be lost when most of the autos are taken from the highways . . . ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Swimming, tennis and bicycle riding do not improve the female figure. The contrary is true. Dancing is the best exercise for giving or returning symmetry to the female form. If your wife is a little plump have her taught hula dancing. This will aid in getting her back her school girl figure . . . The Police Gazette once annually awarded a belt to the champion bootblack of America. A great idea. We should have more champions so persons of talent could realize to the full on the same. There should be national champion barbers, manicurists, stenographers and coffee shop cashiers. The coffee shop cashier title would be awarded to the girl who made change most rapidly and had the least mechanical manner of smiling and saying "thank you" to customers.

ASIDES: "Jack Dempsey was a flop in films," says a contemporary. That isn't so. Dempsey's first film, a serial, was a big money maker . . . When the war is over and metal is available, the currency should be adjusted to adapt itself to modern conditions. Should be a 6-cent piece and a 12-cent piece, for example. Such an arrangement would enable business men to better gear the price of their products to the currency . . . FABLES FROM FIFTIES: One of the hits of "Priorities Of 1942" is a comedian named Gene Sheldon and his "straight woman," Loretta Fischer, and behind the story of their recent big Broadway break is a saga that could only belong to the Gay White Way.

Loretta was a showgirl in "Whoopee," and eight years ago she married Gene and they worked together in his act. But she was never happy in vaudeville; she longed for a little home where she could stay put and she begged Gene to give up show business and get some steady job and make a try for security. He wouldn't relinquish his hopes of fame, though, so two years ago she divorced him. She went to Chicago and retired and married a business man who could give her what she wanted; a home, and security, and the reasonable assurance of a calm and uneventful future.

But she couldn't stand it.

After nine months of what she had wanted for six years, Loretta wired Gene and asked if she could come back in the act. He said yes.

She's very happy now. They got good reviews in "Priorities," and she's back in the spotlight where she knows now she belongs.

Gene is happy, too. The act is going better than ever, and he's in love. With a showgirl named Peggy McCann—Loretta's room mate!

ALL AROUND TOWN: Lou Holtz and Clifford Fischer had a terrific scrap backstage at "Priorities." Phil Baker was the Henry Clay . . . Morton Downey and Bonnie Edwards playing gin rummy and ("hearts," from the looks of it) at the Cub Room . . . Carrie Munn wearing a white organdie apron over her evening dress . . . Bert Lahr knocking with five . . . Belle Baker, who says her nephew is doing his best to conserve paper. In school these days he's throwing pint-sized spitballs!

Harry Richman is selling his Florida home. He's got a commission in the Air Corps . . . Bonnie Edwards is becoming a copy writer for an advertising agency . . . Cobina Wright's husband, Palmer Beaudette, washed out of Officers' Training School at Ft. Benning and is back at Ft. Lewis as a non-com . . . Gypsy Rose Lee's chickadee is a prominent Wall Streeter.

BOSTON after DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

THE CAPE COD SEASON is getting off to an early start, sho' enuff, this year . . . Our Southern accent may be attributed to the alleged fact that the Gulf Stream wends along its balmy way not far from the shores of Falmouth, and the undeniably milder clime of our famous Cape Cod localities makes April nightclubbing thereabouts not too unseasonable . . . Proximity to Camp Edwards is helpful, from a business standpoint, also . . . But linked with news of the Barclay's opening comes a startling piece of information—not thoroughly checked because Lou Walters is in New York and was unavailable an hour ago . . . This bit of news makes the Barclay's prospects brighter than ordinarily, because the burden of it is that Mr. Walters will not operate his Cape Cod Latin Quarter, a mile or so up the road from the Barclay, this season.

THIS IS NOT TO AFFIRM that the Latin Quarter, under one auspices or another will not be open this summer . . . If it opens under any sponorship except that of the now nationally-famous Mr. Walters, however, competition for other Cape Cod nightclubs will be much less brisk . . . There is, apparently, only one Lou Walters, a lad with the Midas-touch these latter years . . . With Lou out of the running, business won't be so concentrated in one Cape Cod spot . . . We hear that Bob Hardy and his band is the first choice of the Barclay's new Boston owners, as the club's maestro and music-makers

MIKE TODD, THE FAMOUS YOUNG New York showman, got his come-uppance in the course of a hectic overnight trip in which he signed Bobby Clark for his new show, "Star and Garter," and tried to see another of the principals of the same show . . . Michael took it for granted that he would be able to get seats for the Old Howard, where Georgia Sothern was playing . . . And so, we must confess, did the Bostonian on whom the task devolved of digging up the ducats . . . Mr. Todd had met Miss Sothern only once, and that was the fateful day when he signed a contract giving her her first chance at the big money which comes with success in a Broadway musical . . . And before signing Georgia he had seen her work just once . . . Consequently he was eager to see the lively Georgia go into her dance, preferably in ignorance that her new boss was "out front."

AT FOUR P. M. THE SEARCH for a pair of seats for Miss Sothern's performance got under way . . . The

BOBBY CLARK

GEORGIA SOTHERN

They're to Star in Mike Todd's "Star and Garter"

S. R. O. sign was hanging out even then . . . One surefire plan was frustrated because traffic was tight . . . The plan was to persuade a seat-holding pair of customers to relinquish their tickets for that performance . . . But by the time the scout was disgorged from his taxicab all patrons of the Old Howard had been seated comfortably in the auditorium . . . Mike, disgusted, gave it up . . . "It couldn't happen in New York," said he. "In New York even the burlesque shows are handled by the ticket scalpers."

ANOTHER MISCHANCE connected with the Todd visit cost Jimmy Marr, the baritone-basso at Steuben's Vienna Room, an audition and a possible spot in "Star and Garter" . . . Jimmy is the chap who was booked into Steuben's for one week . . . That was 30 weeks ago, and he's still going strong . . . As luck would have it, the Schneider brothers, who operate Steuben's, had helped out Mr. Blinstrub, who runs the huge nightclub of that name in South Boston, and Jimmy Marr was on loan for the evening . . . It was 11:30 p. m., and too late to make South Boston in time . . . And to make it complete, it was impossible to make contact with lovely Eleanor "Sister" Frothingham, of the Boston Frothinghams, on short notice . . . Two talented Bostonians, therefore, by bad luck in timing, missed possible chances to appear in the most promising musical of the New York Spring season . . . Frances Faye will be honored tonight by Jay C. Flippen and Happy Felton when the stars of "Hellzapoppin" attend the Mayfair's weekly theatrical night.

COMEDY ROLE FOR ANN SHERIDAN

By Loucila O. Parsons

Ann Sheridan

HOLLYWOOD, March 24—Walter Wanger remains at Universal, not only for his second picture to follow "Eagle Squadron" but for probably the most elaborate movie he has ever produced. "Arabian Nights," ranking in the literary world as one of the 10 top classics, is to be brought to the screen by Walter, and I mean brought! Neither the horses nor the dollar marks will be spared in making the Oriental fables, which have been passed on from generation to generation, come to life on the screen.

Listen to this:

Sabu, who has left Alexander Korda to sign a Universal contract, will have one of the principal roles and Jon Hall and Maria Montez also will be featured.

WALKED IN ON JACK WARNER and found him surrounded by producers, directors, writers, musicians and dance directors. Among the musical comedies planned is the one Vincent Freedley will do this summer with Ann Sheridan, Dennis Morgan and Joan Leslie in the lineup.

On Jack's desk were dozens of schedules for propaganda pictures, of what he calls showing American ways of life.

"From now on," said Jack, "we are going to call a Jap a Jap, a German a German and an Italian an Italian. Why not?

"They are our enemies and we are not going to put gloves in their hands and pat them on the back. We are going to show them for what they are and give the praise to our own Americans."

THE PLAINTIVE-VOICED, sad-eyed Rita Hayworth will have to forget her matrimonial troubles May I when she starts "Carnival in Rio" with Fred Astaire, for she will need all her strength for her dancing routines.

William Seiter has been engaged to direct her and Fred, and Xavier Cugat and his rhumba orchestra will have a featured part.

I talked with Irving Berlin last week and he told me he has tried for two years to get Fred to return to Broadway, but he always refused to leave pictures.

22 Snores Feature In Laughton Film

Ten studio technicians and four secretaries make their film debut via snoring sounds in RKO Radio's Charles Laughton-starring picture, "The Tuttles of Tahiti." Invisible but not inaudible in the opening sequence of the film, their night music serves as introduction to the unannounced homecoming of Jon Hall.

This actor, listening to the saraband of family snores, is able to single out the nasal trumpetings of Laughton, who portrays his dad, the reedy pipings of his grandmother, acted by Adeline De Walt Reynolds, and the cacophonous chorale formed by a pack of cousins, nieces, nephews and brothers.

The result is a pleasant din.

Actors of this film comedy were not called to record these nocturnal toccatas and fugues. Instead, each member of RKO Radio's sound department, and four secretaries, emitted his best imitation of night music.

Gala Stage Show Opens Friday

For next Friday's new stage show, the RKO Boston Theater management announces a unique double feature in the persons of Jimmy "Schnozzala" Durante, stage and screen comedian, and Ina Ray Hutton, the oomph girl band-leader and all-male orchestra.

Durante, who hadn't been very active in the entertainment world until he popped up with a standout performance in the filmed "Man Who Came to Dinner," is now much in demand in Hollywood and on Broadway.

Miss Hutton, who has been tagged the bombshell of rhythm, sings and dances in addition to leading a band doing all these in a thoroughly self-possessed, competent fashion. "Five O'Clock Whistle" and "A Handful of Stars" two of her latest recordings are to be included in her forthcoming RKO Boston repertoire. Stuart Foster, featured baritone with the band, Chester Fredericks and Gloria Lane comedy dance team, and Cornelio's canine mimics, complete the bill.

The screen attraction, "The Ghost of Frankenstein," stars Lon Chaney, Ralph Bellamy and Evelyn Ankers. It deals with the son of the infamous doctor who originally created the devastating monster. Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Lionel Atwill, Bela Lugosi and Doris Lloyd head the supporting cast.

'The Fleet's In' At Met Sunday

Bright, new film prospect is the stirring Paramount musical, "The Fleet's In," due at the Metropolitan Theater on Sunday, March 29, following the engagement of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Dorothy Lamour and Jimmy Dorsey and his orchestra, featuring Bet Efros and Helen O'Connell, top the big cast of "The Fleet's In."

With nine hit tunes to give it ragtime spice, "The Fleet's In" is the hilarious story of a beautiful ballroom entertainer known as "The Countess" who is the nemesis of every sailor who tries to kiss her. The whole fleet just awaits the day when a redoubtable champion will arise to conquer "The Countess."

Through a series of circumstances, a genuinely bashful gob becomes to be known as irresistible to the gals and the whole fleet bets on whether he'll prove to be more than a match for "The Countess."

Dorothy Lamour is the hard-to-get girl; William Holden, the shy sailor, and Eddie Bracken, his bantering bantam friend.

Among the tunes featured in the big production are "Tain't-a-Time," "I Remember You," "When You Hear the Time Signal," "Arthur Murray Taught Me Dancing in a Hurry," "Not Mine," and "The Fleet's In."

Summer Stage Chiefs to Meet

Between 75 and 100 theater managers from all over the country will attend a two-day convention to discuss the problems and prospects of the summer theaters in New York on April 15 and 16 under auspices of the Summer Stock Managers Ass'n.

Greatly encouraged by the result of conferences with Actors Equity Ass'n and by the many inquiries coming directly to the managers from the localities where they have been operating their theaters it is definite that a majority of the summer play houses will open their seasons as usual.

Bruno Walter's Brilliant Conducting Opera Highlight

By JOYCE DANA

Not for 50 years has Boston heard a performance of Gluck's "Orfeo Ed Euridice," which the Metropolitan Opera presented at the Metropolitan Theater last evening. Those who have sojourned to New York and pre-war Europe may, therefore, be able to conjure up memories of past performances.

But for the uninitiate, this performance of one of the earliest of the so-called modern school of opera held interest if not excitement a singular charm in its score if not its vocal import, and brilliant conducting by Bruno Walter of the dashing, shod ancestor of all the good ops we've had since.

For it was Bruno Walter in the pit leading us on through the tuneful choral drama that is one of the most stately operas of all time. Walter, as all good masters as drawn from old Gluck's teaching and the rich-handed way with Kerish Pandemonium and Orfeo.

What else Met would do without the redoubtable Mme. Thebom what with the war and priorities and other extraneous matters would be hard to conjecture. She is the bulwark of the company, and as the [illegible] impressario [illegible] she exceeded the fine work she has already displayed.

The Orfeo of Jarmila Novotna proved her second [illegible] Boston [illegible] the fact that the Viennese "La Traviata" has an opportunity to truly give out with that lovely soprano of hers in Mme. Thebom's "Oh, My Beau, Be Very."

We must be grateful to Martha Farrell for an entrancing [illegible] tennis shorts a la Helen Wills as Amore and to Annamary Dickey as Un Ombra Felice [illegible] pleasantly in the briefest of roles.

And praise be to Hedwig Gorr whose starring [illegible] opera in the character of the [illegible] Hades scene was most effective and to Chorus Master Lazaro Cuesta.

A SUIT SPRING shouldn't bring to mind only the crisp tailleur . . . the more fancy free, soft and dressy suit is actually preferable. Let masculine tailoring shine in your uniform . . . let it be, otherwise! Whether the first day of spring when you step out in your suit be hot or cold doesn't matter . . . for you may, as this model does, wear three warm marten skins and take along your fan! The Mollie Parnis suit of navy wool is trimmed with black ball fringe. The silky marten skins are worn in a long boa. And the fan is a clip of lacy, open gold with a diamond rose for decoration, designed by Paul Flato. At night it may be worn around your neck on a ribbon.—ANNICE BRINK.

LITTLE SISTER NOW BIG GIRL IN HER EASTER GARB

By BETTINA BEDWELL

WHILE big sister gets most of the publicity in the Easter parade, the small fry haven't been in any way neglected by the designers of children's fashions. More than ever, they are making twin outfits for little sisters, which may be matched to what mother wears.

And cotton is king of the fabrics used for children's dresses. For that matter, it is getting into the wardrobes of debutantes, too, this spring, when silks are out and other materials rationed.

Some of the prettiest dresses for sisters, aged from 8 down to 3, are made of sparkling striped cottons, which are gay and washable. Miss Dulin has sketched a sister act in striped cotton which shows how charming such dresses can be.

These models by the Mason Line are intended for girls of 8 and 4 years, and both are made of red and white candy-striped cotton.

They are trinket-size dirndls, and the necklines and sleeves are trimmed with ruffles of white, while narrow bands of the fitted waists are printed with tiny red hearts. This trimming is cotton braid.

NEWS FOR MODERN WOMEN

• FOOD •

By Martha Lee

SAUSAGE SERVED PLAIN and simple is a table tale that can't be told too often. Thrifty, with no bone and no waste, it gives the male of the species an old-fashioned thrill to smell that sausage sizzling in the skillet. And the sausage-burger is the latest in a long line of masculine favorites based on the spicy pork patty and the much loved link.

The secret of sausage-burgers is quickly told, but their success as a snack is long lasting. Just mix a pound of sausage meat with ¾ cup of diced apple, leaving the peel on for extra flavor. Season with a little salt and shape into patties; fry them as you would any sausage patty, draining off the fat from time to time. Then serve on hamburger buns or on toasted English muffins to the young folks when they come in from the outdoors ravenous with hunger.

Sausage-burgers are new but sausage itself is old and honored in the annals of eating. Sausage links and griddle cakes are as good at Sunday supper as they are at Sunday breakfast; served on a platter with fried apple rings, or mashed potato patties, they're good and time. Wrapped in biscuit blankets, the links bake brown in the oven for a sausage surprise. Even scientists say the sausage is good, but they mean "good for you" when quoting sausage's quota of vitamin B1.

Choose pork patties or links, then list these new twists to the old, old story of the sausage's success.

PORK SAUSAGE EN CASSEROLE

8 sausage links
1 medium-sized onion, minced
1 green pepper, chopped
1½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
2½ cups canned tomatoes
1 pimiento, minced
3 cups cold boiled macaroni or spaghetti

Cut the sausage into ½ inch lengths. Saute until brown. Remove sausage to a hot dish. To the drippings add the onion, green pepper, salt and pepper. Then add the tomatoes, pimientos, macaroni and sausage. Turn into a well greased casserole and bake in a hot oven (400 deg. F.) 20 minutes or until thoroughly hot and a delicate brown on top. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

SAUSAGE BAKED IN POTATOES

Wash and pare potatoes of uniform size. Make hole with apple corer in each. Bake potatoes in hot oven for 20 minutes. Push sausage into center of each potato, in baking dish and bake in hot oven (400 deg. F.) one hour.

SAUSAGE OMELET

Brown two or three fresh pork sausage patties for about 5 minutes, mashing them together in the pan; or use bulk sausage meat. Place the browned meat in the middle of an omelet, just ready to fold. Serve with tart jelly as a garnish.

SAUSAGE LOAF

1 lb. sausage meat
1 lb. lean beef, ground
½ cup fine bread crumbs
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
1 tsp. sage
2 eggs, beaten
½ cup light cream

Mix all ingredients thoroughly; shape into loaf and bake, uncovered, in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 1 hour. This may be served with a cream sauce. Makes 1 loaf, 8x4x3 inches, or 6 servings.

Beauty

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL—The true method of testing lipsticks for shade-effect . . . part of the wonderful charm analysis offered free to our readers, and described today by Arline Gould . . . an open sesame to new charm and beauty for you if there ever was one!

BEAUTY-CHARM ANALYSIS OFFERED FREE THIS WEEK

By ARLINE GOULD

IT'S A TOSS-UP whether you can have more fun at a fortune-teller's or in the hands of a beauty analyst . . . but it's no toss-up as to the comparative value! For just one session under the competent, measuring eyes of beauty and charm analysis can turn your whole life into a more productive track than any number of ego-bolstering, rainbow "fortunes."

You'll have your opportunity all this week when, without charge, you may put yourself up for beauty and charm analysis from not one but four experts!

Everyone who presents herself for a charm analysis in a Boston shop will immediately become the center of a flurry of flattering interest. You'll forget your shyness instantly as Rosli, a famous fashion artist, makes a sketch of you as you are . . . and then a contrasting sketch of you as you should be . . . at the head of a "charm chart" which will surely turn out to be YOUR Magna Charta, your personal Declaration of Independence!

You'll go on down the line, with revelatory, happy disclosures of just what you should do about your hair, your posture, the lines of your clothes and even your hats. The fashion artist will drape the spring's most fashionable colors on you . . . and will color-assemble you so you'll make no wearisome mistakes in choosing clothes and make-up.

A perfume prescription, for your clothes and personality, comes next. And to make sure that your analysis is complete, Jeanne, a contour expert, tells you how to employ massage and diet to change your figure and keep yourself fit.

The head of a novel and ingenious charm school in New York City, Madame Rose Marie Bourdillon, will herself take over from this point . . . and do everything short of psychoanalysis (maybe that, too!) to cap the climax of your adventure in charm.

There's a chance for some lucky beauty seeker to win a trip to New York, for a free individual analysis by Mme. Bourdillon . . . well worth looking into!

To learn about this unique opportunity for a free beauty and charm analysis (this week only) phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, except the week-end, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Seasonal Changes Have Appeal

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

SEATTLE, Wash., Monday—I begin to dislike heartily saying good-by to people these uncertain days, and yet that seems to be our lot. I left San Diego Sunday morning, did my broadcast in the afternoon from Los Angeles, lunched with some friends and started my journey up the coast to Seattle before dark.

Southern California is very beautiful with its flowers and waving trees and houses covered with vines. I can quite understand the feeling of the gentleman, who said to me as we came into San Diego, "I never return to Southern California without realizing how rich it makes me feel. We seem to have so much given us lavishly by nature."

He had to add that, for the moment, man was reducing some of these riches. He was crowding in a little too quickly on a city that was not quite prepared to receive him in such numbers, or so rapidly. However, this condition is something which can be remedied and the climate is a permanent gift.

Strangely enough, I suppose if you live long enough in certain places, their very familiarity makes you feel an affection for them. In spite of the beauty, which I acknowledge and enjoy when here, I never have any desire permanently to leave the countryside which for me has been "home" during most of the years of my life. Nature is not so kind, winters are hard, summers are sometimes too hot, sometimes too cold, the lot of the farmer and gardener is always a gamble, and yet I like the change of seasons.

I WOULD MISS never having a landscape covered by snow. The coming of spring seems to be more wonderful because of the extremes that he before it and beyond it. No coloring in the world seems to me more brilliant than an autumn hillside, with scarlet and gold maple and russet oak leaves mixed in with the evergreen of pine and hemlock.

I forgot to tell you that Madame Genevieve Tabouis brought me her book the other day. She may be a modern Cassandra, but I have an idea her experiences may be valuable reading for some of the rest of us. I look forward to dipping into this book as soon as possible.

It is pleasant to be back with my daughter and son-in-law and I am particularly glad to find her rapidly regaining in strength.

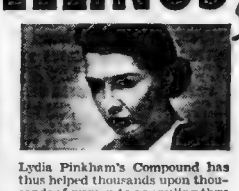
"MIDDLE-AGE" WOMEN who are mortified by
DIZZY FEELINGS

Due to this period in a woman's life!



If you're middle-age—say between 38 and 52—and are weak, nervous, fretful, and blue at times, perhaps suffer dizziness, hot flushes and distress of "irregularities"—due to this cause—

Then try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—the best known medicine you can buy today that's made especially for women. Pinkham's Compound is famous to help relieve distress due to this female functional disturbance. Taken regularly—it helps build up resistance against such trying symptoms which may betray your age faster than anything.

Lydia Pinkham's Compound has thus helped thousands upon thousands of women to go smiling thru trying symptoms of "middle age." Follow label directions. WORTH TRYING!

For free trial bottle tear this out and send with name and address to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., 112 Cleveland St., Lynn, Mass.

Favor Listing Of Women

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—Registration of women for war work—a measure proposed recently by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt—was advocated today by members of Congress who have become apprehensive lest a shortage of skilled labor develop in munitions plants.

Chairman Thomas (D) of Utah of the Senate labor committee said women willing to train for war industry jobs not only should prove helpful in filling the places of men called to service but should foster higher morale.

He said, however, any registration of women should be voluntary and not the compulsory method employed in Britain. This view was shared by Democratic Leader Barkley.

Pastor in Pulpit For 24 Hours, Claims Record

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 24 (AP)—The Rev. D. W. Whittaker, 36-year-old pastor of the Independent Pentecost Church here, claimed a record today after a 24-hour session in his pulpit.

Pausing only to sip water from time to time, the former Los Angeles minister preached continuously from 6 p. m. Sunday until 6 o'clock last night. His theme was "America, Back to God."

"The congregation stayed with me," he said pridefully, "or, at least, others came in to take their places."

Quiz Medford Man In Death of Stepson

Medford police today questioned a 41-year-old man concerning the mysterious death of his 3 year-old stepson, which is being investigated by Medical Examiner George S. Miles.

Members of the family called a doctor to treat the child, who was unconscious when the physician arrived. He was pronounced dead and police called Dr. Miles into the case. An autopsy was scheduled for this forenoon and police said further action would depend on Dr. Miles' report.

Our National Anthem Tops All Hit Tunes

—By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Distributed by International News Service

I MET Mr. Paine of ASCAP over at Fred Waring's Club the other night. I asked him why he didn't ask Hit Parade to make "The Star Spangled Banner" its number one tune every week.

He said that's a good idea and he was going to get in touch with George Washington Hill. Our national anthem is being played more than any tune on the air and has been popular for over a century.

That "Buckle Down, Winsocki" is the best marching tune I have heard in years. It has Glenn and Sullivan beat a mile. The Merry-Go-Round is a complete

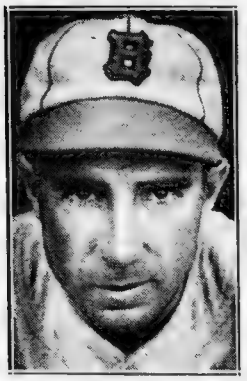
COONEY SEES RUNAROUND, MAY QUIT BRAVES



JOHNNY COONEY
What Must He Do to Win Job?

By BILL GRIMES

SANFORD, Fla., March 24—The playing days of Johnny Cooney, outfield stylist and leading hitter of the Braves for the past few years, may be over.

Right now he is contemplating retirement and probably will announce his decision within two days.

The truth in that Cooney feels he is getting a tossing around by the Braves management, feels he doesn't deserve it and is downright hurt by it.

Unable to report to the Braves at the start of training because of the serious illness of his wife, the great flychaser was terribly upset by a report from the Braves camp saying Stengel dreaded the thoughts of Cooney's eventual arrival because he didn't know what to do with him.

Stengel drew a parallel between Cooney and himself, pointing out that he was sent to the minors after winning a pennant for the Giants with a ninth-inning home run, one report stated.

Stengel pointed out that he had to make way for Jimmy O'Connell at that time, and intimated Cooney will have to make room for Tommy Holmes the story said.

Cooney had a long talk with Bob Quinn yesterday, concerning his status with the Braves but refused to divulge the outcome of it. He wasn't too cheery, however, and returned to Sarasota a short while later after asking:

"What do you have to do to win a regular berth?"

If Cooney was told he was expected to fill a utility role you may as well expect an announcement from Johnny that he is resigning as an active member of the Braves.

Johnny isn't the type to squawk, and will probably give the illness of his wife as the reason for calling it a day. He is deeply concerned about his wife's health. She appeared to be coming along nicely following a serious operation, but had a relapse.

Johnny feels that it is more important that she have his company during her illness than that he play baseball, but feels that he should fulfill his obligations to the Braves.

Now that the Braves apparently have decided they have no obligations toward their leading hitter and best outfielder of the last two seasons, it looks as though they are going to lose themselves a ball player. And a good one.

What'll He Do With 319 Hitter?

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN Sports by Jack Conway

With Regards Derby Threat

WITH REGARDS, who has been racing at Hot Springs, Ark., is the real dark horse for the Kentucky Derby, according to Bill McAuley. Bill has been handicapping the horses running at Oaklawn, and has seen With Regards score impressive victories.

"The racing has been good at Oaklawn," writes McAuley. "There has been at least one standout horse racing here. I refer to With Regards. He is a big bay colt and is owned by T. D. Grimes. He has looked impressive as he has won at Oaklawn.

"With Regards may prove the real dark horse of the year. It would appear to me that Alsab, Requested and the other big name horses in the Kentucky Derby will have to display amazing form if they are to win from With Regards.

"They have few races for 2-year-olds here due to the fact the three-furlongs start is on the bend coming into the stretch. A fair horse with an inside post position can beat a better horse who has an outside post position.

"All of the 'books' and gambling houses in the town are closed except one swanky place which runs only at night. It is one of the best equipped gambling houses in the country. They have a dining room, night club and an elaborate bar in addition to a huge gambling room.

"The evening opens with a two-hour bingo game at $2 a throw. The house gives away the entire take in prizes. The idea is to get people into the place for the gambling room. I have seen almost 2000 people in this gambling house on a Sunday night. Everything goes full swing.

"Life for the local bookmakers has been pretty rough since the track opened. The State Police conducted numerous raids on bookmakers early in the meeting with the result that they found it too difficult to operate, and have remained quiet."

* * *

Californian Horses

McAuley says that many of the Californian horses that have been racing at Oaklawn will later appear at New England tracks.

"I have been able to get a good line on the Californian horses that have been racing here," declared McAuley. "Many of them will appear at New England tracks this season with the ban still clamped on racing on the Coast. If all of the horsemen who wish to ship their stables to the three major New England tracks this year were accommodated, it would be necessary to triple the stall space.

"These Californian horses are at times difficult to figure. Some of the thoroughbreds which have good records have not done so well at Oaklawn, while cheap platers that have appeared at Tanforan and Agua Caliente have done well. You will get your first peek at some of the better of the Californian horses at the Narragansett Park meeting."

Bill says there are many Boston people at Hot Springs. Included among them is Louie Rose.

When Oaklawn closes, McAuley will move into Bowie, Maryland, where he will once more be looking over the thoroughbreds with Dave Wilson. The latter is still at Tropical Park, but will stop off at Bowie en route to New England and the opening of Narragansett Park on April 13.

The New England racing season is less than three weeks away. Two weeks from Saturday you can pick your daily double and longshots surrounded by local atmosphere.

Road Races

There will be four important road races before the B. A. A. Marathon on Monday, April 19.

The William F. Reddish A. A. of Jamaica Plain will conduct a 10-mile road race next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. There is still a chance for runners to enter. Entries close with Gerard I. Nolen, 2 Centre st Jamaica Plain.

On April 4 at 3 p. m the Presentation Literary and Social Association of Brighton will hold a ten mile handicap. This event always furnishes plenty of competition. Entries should be sent to John T. Marks, 17 Oak sq., Brighton.

The Cathedral Y. M. C. A. will conduct its ten mile handicap on Saturday, April 11. Thomas J. Haggerty, No. 75 Union Park st. is in charge of entries.

On Sunday, April 19, the Ryan Associates of Methuen will hold a ten mile handicap. J. Frank Buckley, No. 55 Broadway, Methuen has charge of the entries.

Tom Kennaly is looking forward to the B. A. A. Marathon on April 20 getting new highs for the number and quality of the contestants.

Bruins Tackle Hawks in Garden; Loss of Seibert Dims Chi Hopes

Given up as a shell of the great machine of old, the Bruins today have the laugh on the hockey world as they sit in an ideal spot awaiting the bell to send them into round two of Series B in this hectic Stanley Cup merry-go-round at the Boston Garden tonight.

Defying tradition, the Bruins elected to open this first series against the Blackhawks in Chicago and emerged victors to make them a 10 to 3 shot to win this series and a 10 to 6 favorite to wrap it up tonight instead of drawing it out to three games.

If the Hawks couldn't take the Bruins in Chicago, it's hard to see how they can turn the trick here tonight. And to make the Hawks cause seem all the more hopeless, they left home yesterday afternoon without Earl Seibert, who is the "All" league defenseman.

Seibert is suffering from an infected sinus and the doctor refused to permit him to make the trip. Without Earl on defense, the Hawks have little chance. They proved that here three weeks ago when the Bruins belted them 9 to 1 with him in the hospital.

This crafty hard working defenseman just seems to hold the club together. It was his work that helped keep the score close Sunday, even though he was in great pain and should never have played.

With Seibert 1100 miles away, it's a pretty good bet that this series instead of going three games will end tonight. At least it's all right with the Bruins. In fact, they were going to throw everything at the invaders to clinch Series B.

This anxiety on the part of the Bruins to win this second affair was very well explained by Coach Dit Clapper at the airport last night when he arrived with the squad by plane.

"We need the added rest," chirped the new coach.

"If we win tonight, we can rest until Saturday when we tackle with either Detroit or Chicago. That will give us three full days of rest which would be perfect.

"In Chicago, Dutch Hiller was nowhere near him. If because of a bad cold and I hate to shove Clare Martin up there at a wing and boy, how that kid did step into them.

"Wiseman's 'charley horse' kicked up and bothered him all the way. In order to rest him, I had to double 'Busher' Jackson on two lines. But," continued Dit, "that old warhorse can take it.

"Then every added day we get for Bill Cowley is going to do us a lot of good.

"With this trio below par, games tonight and Thursday with Chicago and then jumping into Series D against the Wings or Canadiens would find us a tired outfit.

"So it's tonight's game we want and we are going to get it," concluded Dit.

The players feel much the same way as their new head coach. Capt Jack Crawford went on record as saying that airplane trip back to give the Bruins a night at home while the Hawks are on the sleepers won't help Paul Thompson's gang.

All in all, the squad's spirit is at a peak. They have regained that old swagger and confidence of the famed Bruin squads of yesteryear. They feel they are going places maybe they are right.

* * *

Roy Conacher has changed from a quiet gent to a most valuable and effervescent individual since he has gone on his recent scoring spree . . . Roy attributes it to the shiftier to a heavy stick—in fact, he has become so superstitious about the stick-laugh that he's hoping the stick won't be broken until the Cup games are over.

* * *

Eddie Wiseman will be forced to play with a huge pad protecting his "charley horse" . . . Cowley looked much better against Chicago that he did in the season windup against the Americans . . Hammy Moore, Bruins' trainer, was the only member of the party who had to come home by train as he had to watch and check the baggage.

* * *

Paul Thompson's Saturday state ment that Brimsek in the nets is like a ball club having a 25-game winning pitcher, looked pretty good in that opening game . . . Mr. Zeo was again superlative . . Even the biased Chicago sports announcer who broadcasted the game had to single Brimsek out as the star of the evening.

Robertson Out, Karakas Takes Goalie Berth

By the Associated Press

Springfield, out in front in the American League's semifinal playoff series with Indianapolis by a two game to one margin, takes the ice tonight with Mike Karakas in the nets instead of Goalie Emile Robertson.

Lew Jenkins Eyes Army

Lew Jenkins, former lightweight champion from Sweetwater, Tex., calculates he'll up and re-enlist in Uncle Sam's Army if he fails to beat Mike Kaplan, Dorchester, top-ranking welterweight, in their 10-round scrap next Friday night at Mechanics Building.

"I figure it out this way," said Lew, "Lou Ambers for the title, and if I don't win this one there'll just be no sense in going on.

"I'll go back to Sweetwater and see the recruiting officers and get myself into a bigger and much better fight. Say, I'd like to take a swing at one of those Japs. They're just about my size and guys my size are usually made to order for me."

As a matter of fact, Jenkins has spent most of his life picking on fellows much larger than himself. He's battled the best of the welterweights and more than held his own. He's a lightweight with a heavyweight's punch and wouldn't mind meeting any of them if the boxing laws permitted.

Jenkins has served a two-year hitch in the Army and is eager to get back. But first he wants to prove to the world that he ranks with the greatest fighters of all time, and in so doing to recapture some of the $80,000 he's thrown to the four winds and the head waiters. Jenkins cleaned up a quick fortune after knocking out Lou Ambers for the 135-pound crown and squandered it just as rapidly.

He wants to k. o. Mike Kaplan to prove that he's punching as of old. Then he thinks Mike Jacobs or some other promoter will give him a return bout with Sammy Angott, 135-pound ruler. Then, in addition, he thinks he will regain the title.

Boxer Exonerated In Death of Foe

PHILADELPHIA, March 24 (AP)—Angelo Pantellas, 23-year-old professional boxer, was exonerated by a coroner's jury today in the death of an opponent who died in the ring March 5 after a third round knockout.

Dr. Benjamin Gouley, a coroner's physician, said the opponent, Herbert Black, 24, Negro, succombed to injuries inflicted on his neck by repeated blows.

PORTER'S CAP TO TRY AGAIN IN DE SOTO 'CAP

MIAMI, Fla., March 24 (AP)—Still trying for his first Florida victory, Charles S. Howard's Porter's Cap will go out again Saturday in the $5000 six-furlong De Soto Handicap against the two horses which beat him in the Biscayne purse yesterday.

Even though the Howard horse finished third behind De Kalb and Bull Reigh there were indications that he was beginning to approach the form that won him more than $100,000 in purses in his first two years of racing.

WAS CLOSING FAST

De Kalb and Bull Reigh, both lightning fast starters, got away ahead of Porter's Cap, as did Augury, the favored fourth horse in the field.

But Porter's Cap was closing fast at the end of six furlongs of muddy track, and railbirds agreed there was not definite proof the attempt to experiment with him in recent sprint races had failed. Porter's Cap was bred for distance and only his tendency to fade in longer races this winter caused Owner Howard to try him in the dash events.

The crowd that watched the program was only 6376, smallest of Tropical Park's spring meeting.

MIOLAND DRAWING CARD

Since Howard planned to keep his horses here until the end of this week, it was hopefully assumed he would remain until April 10 and send his other ace, the great Miolan, out after the winner's share of the $10,000 Tropical Handicap.

Miolan is rated as the best drawing card now training at Tropical. He galloped off with the $7500 Coral Gables Handicap last Saturday.

Porter's Cap will get a break in the weights in the De Soto. He'll be asked to carry only 114 pounds, as compared to 118 for Augury, 117 for Dit and 116 for Sweet Willow. De Kalb was assigned 112.

Coast Football Schedule Stands

PORTLAND, Ore., March 24 (INS)—Talk of canceling or drastically changing the Pacific Coast Conference football schedule because of the war died away today as representatives of the 10 member universities thrashed over the loop's problems at their yearly spring meeting in Portland.

Consensus of opinion among coaches, managers and faculty members favors proceeding with the present schedule with the understanding that the Army may cancel or restrict games a few hours before kickoff time.

Trade Winds Blow With Buck Defiant

LAKELAND, Fla., March 24 (AP)—Our old and esteemed pal Buck Newsom—one of the greatest pitchers that ever lived, on his own admission—finds himself in a position that might embarrass the average man here at the training camp of the Detroit Tigers. It even has Buck a trifle disconcerted.

Last of the important baseball holdouts, the big fellow from South Carolina is being permitted to work out to his heart's content. He is running and sweating and pitching to batters. He is in surprisingly good condition, some 20 pounds lighter than he was a year ago, when, as the beaten hero of the 1940 World Series, he was tooling around grandly in a car whose horn played "Hold That Tiger."

The only thing is, this time, that Buck doesn't have a contract to play for the Tigers and is being pointedly ignored by officials of the club. He works out, puts on his clothes and leaves the park, looking bewildered. Not even the Detroit sports writers ask him for his views. Only his teammates josh him a bit. Buck is being given the "silent treatment."

OFFERED $12,500

It is tough stuff for the big man who pitched the Tigers to a pennant only two seasons ago, with 21 victories and 5 defeats, and who proudly proclaimed last year that he was making the largest salary of any pitcher in the game—$32,500. The club has offered him $12,500 this time, representing perhaps the most drastic reduction in baseball history, and Buck is so rebellious that it looks doubtful they ever can get together.

It seems more likely he will be with another club when the season opens. That will suit Buck, he makes it more than clear. In the clubhouse, streaming with honest perspiration, he kept saying:

"I'll either pitch for 'em or against 'em. But whoever I pitch for will pay old Buck the salary he wants—not what they want to pay."

Buck feels, and perhaps with some reason, that he is being unjustly penalized for the fact that he won only 12 games last year while losing 20. He claims it wasn't that he was any less great a pitcher, but that the Tigers simply had lost the services of Hank Greenberg to the Army. Hank's big bat, he points out dispassionately, made the difference between winning or losing those 1-0 and 2-1 games.

"No pitcher, and I don't care how great he is, can win unless he gets a few hits behind him," said Buck, swabbing himself down after a quick shower. "I had my stuff last year and I still got it. Ask any of these fellows that tried to hit me today."

WANTS $25,000

Newsom was asked how close he had come to getting together with Jack Zeller, general manager of the Tigers, on the salary debate. How much difference was there in their respective figures?

"A right smart," he snorted. "Hell, they're trying to cut me more than most players make. No, I won't split the difference between what they're offerin' and what I want. I've already made enough concession. Whoever I pitch for is going to pay me my figure."

Buck's figure is thought to be around $25,000. Anyone looking for a rugged right-hander, not yet 33 and a good draft risk, who thinks he can win 30 games and probably can, at that, win 20, is invited to inquire of Jack Zeller, care of the Detroit team, at this address. The successful bidder will not find life dull.

The Tigers are sending Dick Wakefield, their expensive young University of Michigan phenom, to their Beaumont (Texas League) farm for more seasoning. The kid can slug the ball, but still has nearly everything to learn about fielding.

Are Dodgers Angling for Buck Newsom?

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 24—Purchase of Stanley (Frenchy) Bordagaray by the Brooklyn Dodgers increased the rumors of a possible trade between the National League champions and the Detroit Tigers. The Tigers are trying to peddle Louis (Bobo) Newsom, holdout pitcher on whom all American League clubs except Washington have waived.

Brooklyn is expected to offer Joe Medwick, former star St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, whose place in the Brooklyn outer garden has been usurped by Augie Galan.

Bordagaray's purchase from the New York Yankees hikes the number of Dodger outfielders to nine.

Censor Weather For Ball Games

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—Broadcasters were advised today, with the approach of the baseball season, that such announcements as "Game called on account of rain" would violate the wartime censorship code.

A memorandum from the office of censorship said:

"If weather conditions cause cancellation of a game, simply state the fact that the game has been cancelled without describing the cause. The unchallengeable baseball broadcast of 1942 will make no reference to the weather conditions at the scene of play."

Newspapers may advise their readers a game has been cancelled "because of weather," with details omitted.

Angel Fears Masked Rival

The Angel, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, realizes that he will be put to a stiff test in defense of his title tomorrow night by El Diablo, masked contender, when the pair meet in the main bout of Promoter Paul Bowser's show at the Arena.

The Angel really is quite worried about things. To get an idea on this matter all you have to do is watch him train for a bout. Generally he takes a shower and gets a brisk rubdown and he is ready for most any challenger. But this time it has been different. He has been in the gymnasium for over a week and he has been paying very especial attention to his "bear hug."

B. U. Gridsters Face Speed Up

There will be no startling innovations during the four-week Boston University spring football training session which got under-way at Weston yesterday with 32 candidates on hand.

Coach Walt Holmer and his aides, Russ Peterson and Bob McKelvey, are going to spend most of their time teaching fundamentals.

The Terriers have a September opener this year for the first time in a long while. Then, too, Labor Day falls on the 7th which means less than three weeks of work before opening against American International. In past years, the Terriers have had at least four and generally five weeks before getting under way.

With so little time available in September, Walt Holmer, who is making his bow as a head coach, has ordered a speed up program for these four weeks. Blocking and tackling will be stressed above all else. In fact, he is intending to hold his first scrimmage Friday afternoon.

A. A. U. Bans Soldier After Camp Game

BALTIMORE, March 24 (AP)—Marty Passaglia, a soldier who played with his Aberdeen proving grounds basketball teammates against a Cumberland, Md., squad rated as professionals, was barred today from amateur athletics in this section.

The action was taken by the South Atlantic Ass'n of the Amateur Athletic Union, specifically barring Passaglia from games played by teh Young Men's Hebrew A'ss'n, of which he is a member, in the Baltimore Basketball League.

The amateur union executive committee took the position that Passaglia was not barred as a soldier and said he was barred as a member of the Y. M. H. A. team because he had participated as a soldier in the game against the professional outfit.

The committee also insisted that it was not declaring Passaglia a professional but was penalizing him for breaking rules of the body.

Y. M. H. A. officials said they would withdraw from competition in the league here as a result.

Emily Lincoln Wins in Upset

Miss Emily Lincoln, State singles champion from Brookline, turned in a smashing upset today at the Longwood Covered Courts when she defeated Mrs. Helen Ribbany, New York city, seeded No. 3, in straight sets in the quarterfinal round of the National omen's Singles championships.

Mrs. Ribbany was the only seeded player who failed to survive preving in an easyy 6-2, 6-1 victim to the shots of Miss Lincoln.

Hope Knowles, Avon, Ct., seeded No. 1, had little trouble with Dorothy ightman, Brookline. Miss Knowles stepped to a soft 6-1 victory in the first match and then romped to a love triumph.

Mrs. Richard Todd, Jackson Heights, N. J., second seeded, eliminated Kay Hubbell, Dedham, 6-2, 6-1, while Kay inthrop, Hamilton, Mass., topped Judy Atterury, Great Neck, L. I., 6-0, 7-5. Miss Atterbury had the set point in the second chapter but a great rally by Miss inthrop clinched the match.

LOUIS PROMISES TO WIN THIS ONE FOR 'CHAPPIE'

FORT DIX, N. J., March 24 (AP)—It probably is asking a bit too much for Joe Louis to knock Abe Simon all the way from Madison Square Garden's ring to a Chicago hospital bedside in one hop Friday night, but the spirit will be there just the same.

Because out there in that hospital cot Jack Blackburn, old faithful "Chappie," often referred to as Joe's Mr. Brain, lies tussling with a cruel combination of rheumatism, sciatica and a near thing with pneumonia. He'll be missing from Joe's corner Friday night for the first time since the Bomber tossed his first bomb. And Joe feels it deeply, since they're pals as well as associates in the beak-busting business.

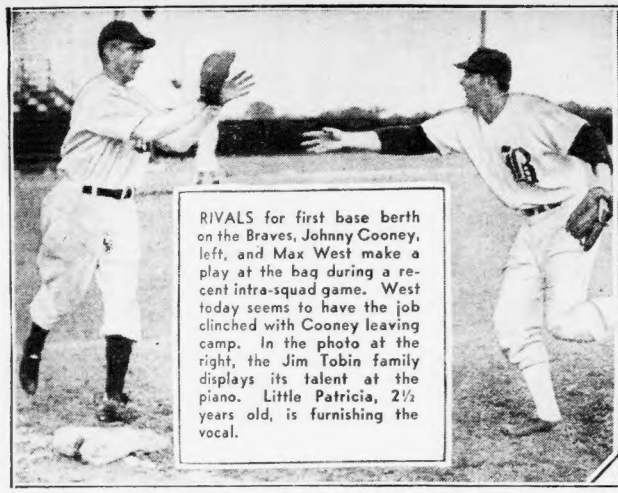
"So this one," the Bomber explained today as he bounced a last whistling hook off the last weary sparmate's nose, "is for Chappie. I gotta win this one for him."

As a result, while the financial and artistic portion of this taffy pul. with Ample Abe is for the benefit of the Army Emergency Relief—Joe is fighting for nothing "'cept my country"—The punches will be pitched for the grinning master-mind. Buck Pvt. Joe says Chappie had more to do, than even himself, in making him the bossman. And just to be on the safe side, he'll get last-minute instructions from Blackburn in a phone call tomorrow night or Thursday.

This means that all hands will have quite a nice evening of it, except possibly Ample Abe. He has to climb into the ring with Joe at his peak. But everyone should be satisfied with the jingle of the cash register. It was learned today they'll sing a tune somewhere between $125,000 and $150,000, which is snappy jive in any league.

Of this, with Joe and Promoter Mike Jacobs kicking in their entire profits and Ample Abe and Madison Square Garden chipping along, the Army fund for needy families of soldiers off to the wars should collect $50,000 or more.

From Simon's camp at Summit, meanwhile, came word that James Joy Johnston, variously referred to as the Boy Bandit or just plain "Pop," figures on working in large Abie's corner personally Friday. He applied to the New York State Athletic Commission for a second's license. If he's in there it will be his first Garden appearance in two years. James Joy, Jr., and Trainer Fred Brown will be on hand to handle the heavy work if and when the roof falls in.



RIVALS for first base berth on the Braves, Johnny Cooney, left, and Max West make a play at the bag during a recent intra-squad game. West today seems to have the job clinched with Cooney leaving camp. In the photo at the right, the Jim Tobin family displays its talent at the piano. Little Patricia, 2½ years old, is furnishing the vocal.

Mel Harder Returns For Vital Mound Test

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 24 (AP)—For old times' sake and the help he can give their hurling staff this year, the Cleveland Indians were glad to have Mel Harder back on the official roster today.

The 32-year-old right-hander's comeback was made official with the signing of a conditional contract under which he will be paid according to the number of games he wins.

Harder's arm failed him last season, his 14th with Cleveland—the only major league club he ever pitched for—and in mid-season he underwent an operation for removal of bone chips from his elbow. At the end of the season he was given his unconditional release.

But neither the club nor Harder wanted his career to end. He accompanied the tribe to its training camp this spring, although he was a free agent and could have attempted to make the grade elsewhere.

His pitching arm has lost its soreness, and although Harder himself has avoided optimistic predictions, he has confided to teammates that th.. arm really feels strong.

Thus far Harder has pitched in two exhibition games.

Bing Crosby Aide, W. A. Quigley, Dies

PASADENA, Cal., March 24 (AP)—William A. Quigley, about 48, vice-president and general manager of Bing Crosby's Del Mar Turf Club, died today. He had been ill most of the last year following an operation.

He was captain and fullback of the Pennsylvania football team which lost to Oregon, 14-0, in a 1916 forerunner of the Rose Bowl New Year's Day game.

PELLAGRINI CATCHES CRONIN'S EYE; CAREY, NEWSOME FACE DEMOTION

By HERB FINNEGAN

ORLANDO, Fla., March 24—Johnny Pesky is the No. 1 shortstop on the Red Sox at the moment, but little Eddie Pellagrini is making his presence felt. Joe Cronin is using the Dorchester boy at second and third as well as short in twilight practice and recently had him finish up a game for Bobby Doerr at second.

"He can make the plays from any position," said Cronin, "and I want him to see as much pitching as possible."

Cronin announced last winter that Pesky would be his shortstop this season, and he probably will be, but it is apparent that he has a lot of respect for Pellagrini's ability.

"He's got that old No. 1," said Joe recently, meaning heart.

Yes, Pelly has plenty of heart. Boston fans will love to see him swish at a baseball. The kid puts his 146 pounds behind every swing and hits the ball for tremendous distances.

"Where does he get his power?" remarked Leo Durocher, Dodger manager, as he watched Pelly drive the ball against the far distant fences down here.

PESKY FAIR-HAIRED BOY

Cronin won't say whether Pelly will stick or not but we have a hunch Louisville will not see the Dorchester boy this year, as advertised.

It burns us up when we hear everybody extolling Pesky's virtues and playing Pelly down. Fellows from Boston, too. Pesky is the fair-haired boy and is getting the build-up. He's a grand kid and a grand shortstop; must be to be named the Most Valuable Player in the American Association, as he was last year at Louisville. But we're not satisfied he is a better shortstop than Pellagrini. Not yet, at any rate.

EDDIE PELLAGRINI

Pesky made some fine plays against the Cardinals at St. Pete last week, getting two hoppers with his gloved hand over second base and leaping high in the air to spear a line drive later in the game. But there is nothing difficult about those plays. And we've seen him make some poor ones.

Against Brooklyn recently, Casey, the pitcher, walked to open an inning. Reese, the next batter, hit a ball directly at Pesky, and the latter played the ball so slowly the double play was not completed. And he hasn't been too strong going to his right.

NEVER BEATEN OUT

Yet everyone in camp is conceding the shortstop post to Pesky without a battle. Everybody but this writer and young Pelly himself.

"I'll be the shortstop on this club," says Pelly confidently. "I never saw a shortstop yet I couldn't beat out.

"I've simply got to make it. I'm getting letters by the handful every day from friends and well-wishers around Boston. They're even making novenas for me. I can't let them down."

Here's a kid, 22 years old, right from the heart of Boston. He's been four years in the Sox service—Danville, Canton, Scranton and San Diego. He went the first 33 games at San Diego last year without an error and accepted more than 100 chances.

He hits a ball as far as the Sox titans. He is a right-handed batter, who would be very much at home in Fenway Park. Pesky bats left-handed.

Pelly hasn't shown too much down here, but neither has Pesky, outside of that one day in St. Pete. The wind has been high most of the time, the pitchers have been keeping the ball high and letting the batters loft it to the outfielders.

I've seen Pelly go an entire game at short without getting a ground ball hit at him.

Nobody has been hitting the ball consistently except Lupien and Finney. And these boys are playing every day.

Most of the others split assignments, and get to bat only once a game as a rule. Pelly has been walked a lot and hasn't had much chance to hit.

But his swing is one beauty and delights the hearts of old-timers. SWISH-H-H-H, and he goes all the way around at the plate, settling on one knee when he misses. He's got the swing of a natural hitter. He has one of the finest arms in baseball. He's a fighter from the drop of the hat.

Yes, we believe he'll be around all year, even though we heard a Bradenton announcer say over the air: "Here's Pellagrini hitting. He's the boy who is expected to join the Louisville club shortly, etc." Louisville trains in Bradenton.

Pelly's much more dangerous at the plate than reserve infielders Tom Carey and Skeeter Newsome. He's ten years younger than either, too.

Pesky is 1-A in the draft, and may not be able to finish the season. Joe Cronin announced recently that he would be a bench manager this year.

No, the more we think of it, the more we're convinced the Sox can't afford to let Pellagrini go. We have an idea that Carey and possibly even Newsome will be demoted with Pelly and Cronin taking care of the utility roles. And we have an idea like Pelly, that he will wind up as the club's No. 1 shortstop eventually.

It was encouraging, therefore, to hear Herb Pennock, Sox farm chief, tell Cronin recently: "The more you see of Pellagrini, the better you'll like him, Joe." Them's my sentiments, Herb.

Willie Turnesa, Nose O. K., Joins Navy

DETROIT, March 24 (INS)—Willie Turnesa, former national amateur golf champion, said today he soon will be inducted into the United States Navy as a specialist in athletics. Previously rejected because of a nose condition, Turnesa underwent an operation to correct the difficulty. He expects to report first to Norfolk, Va.

Williams Tells of Pitching Debut in Minors

SARASOTA, Fla., March 24—"Dread that trip north (cold and rain) after the sunshine down here?" said one of the Sox on the bench the other day.

"Not me," replied Bill Conroy, six foot catcher from Oakland, Cal. . . . Spent four years in Oakland and wasn't warm once. Makes me shiver just to think of it. Night ball, and that wind blowing in from the bay. We had to light fires in the dugout to keep from freezing every night. That's the truth" . . .

Oakland may be cold, but everybody who ever played in San Diego likes that naval base city. Heber Dick Newsome, Bobby Doerr, Eddie Pellagrini and Yank Terry served an apprenticeship out there, an' would rather play in San Diego than any other city outside of the big leagues.

• • •

The boys were on the bus, Doerr, Newsome and Pelly were talking San Diego in the rear. Williams was up front.

"It was in '36," Doerr was saying. "We had some pretty stout hitters on the San Diego club that year, but not one of them ever was able to hit a ball over the right field fence.

"We almost fainted one day when this long stringbean (Williams) came in from high school and hit three over in batting practice. Williams was only 17 then but it didn't take the club long to sign him."

The boys like to get Williams going, and Bobby started the ball rolling.

"Hey, Ted!" he yelled. "Tell us about the time you made your pitching debut in San Diego" . . . Down the aisle Ted anteloped, banging his head against the bus top en route.

"Wasn't that a honey!" screamed Ted as he made his 6-3 frame as comfortable as possible.

"Got 'em out that first inning in order, remember?" Ted started. "Curve ball low and outside. Fast ball high and inside. Then pulled the string on the next one. What a pitcher! Looked like I'd win 30 games."

"Never mind that first inning," said Bobby..."Tell us about the second."

"You would bring that up," laughed Ted, and started the description of the end of his minor league career as a pitcher.

"Well," Ted continued, "at the start of the second inning I figured I was due for a no-hitter. Thought I was the greatest pitcher of all time. Punk kid still in high school mowing those Coast League heroes down in order . . . Then it happened. First guy up doubled . . . Wes Schulmerich up next. I worked on him. 'Good hitter,' I said, 'I'll be careful.' Meant to be but whammo!—out of the park. Two runs over, nobody out . . . 'That's bad," I said to myself, 'but I'll get the rest out.'

"Next guy up is Steve Mesner. No power hitter...Nothing to worry about. I laid one in there, and whammo!—out of the park again . . . Oh, boy, did the manager holler. 'Get out in left field in a hurry,' he shouted, 'and don't ever let me see you on the pitching mound again.'"

HARVARD BOY UPSETS SAUER IN N. E. FINALS

Johnny Bullitt, Harvard junior, provided the largest upset of the current amateur boxing season when he decisively outpointed heavily-favored Jimmy Sauer of Cambridge in three action-packed rounds, much to the delight of 5188 cash customers who attended the New England championships at the Garden.

Both boys danced around, looking for an opening in the first round when suddenly Bullitt scored with two savage uppercuts to the jaw to send the surprised Sauer to the deck for a three count.

Jimmy came back swinging in the second stanza and came very close to evening up matters. In the third, it looked as though Sauer might pull the fight out of the fire but he ran into a vicious right-hander that spun him around and almost sent him down again.

The balloting for Bullitt was unanimous.

FAST FINISH BY HEBERT

Jimmy Mulligan, Lowell middleweight and only defending champion to retain his crown, forced Corp. Intinarelli of Camp Edwards to stop in the third round.

Intinarelli turned in a great performance while he lasted, landing right-hand shots to the body that shook up the champ considerably.

Mulligan came surging back in the third round, landing with a hard left to the stomach and a right to the head which staggered Carlos so badly that he was forced to surrender.

Joe Hebert, Lowell flyweight, was forced to finish very fast as he shaded Clem Crowley of Dorchester to annex the first New England crown.

With defending champion Tony Peppi on the sidelines because of illness, Hebert was figured a cinch to come through with the top laurels.

Eddie "Red" Gullage, bustling bantamweight of Chelsea, survived a first round knockdown and then came roaring back with a two-fisted attack to score a unanimous decision triumph over Pvt. Steve Parks, of Ft. Devens, to annex the 118-pound crown.

In the second round Red dropped Parks twice.

KRONIS VOTED BEST

Exploding a savage left hook to the jaw with only a few moments of the third round remaining, Steve Kronis, chunky Boston featherweight kayoed highly favored Bobby Zollo of Providence.

Kronis was voted the outstanding boxer on the program and was presented the George V. Brown Memorial Trophy by Herb Holm, president of the N. E. A. A. U.

Summary:

Willard Buckless, Saugus welterweight, had too much experience and punching power for Tommy McGrath of Dorchester, punching out a unanimous verdict to take the title.

Paul Conley, South Boston lightweight, proved too fast and capable for Tony Bonamo, putting him away for keeps in the second round.

Peter Louthis, Cumberland, R. I., heavyweight, outslugged Pvt. Hank Duda of Ft. Devens, in three fast moving rounds. Duda went into the final by winning over Chuck Prendible of Winthrop, defending champion.

HOWIE JOHNSON
The Yale Bullet

Hutter's 5-Year Swim Record Endangered

Paced by Howie Johnson, the Yale bullet, the best field of sprinters ever to contest the N. C. A. A. 100-yard freestyle will thrash the waters of the Harvard pool Saturday afternoon and evening. Marks expected to topple include Charlie Hutter's five-year-old pool mark of 52 seconds flat, Walter Spence's 1934 N. C. A. A. standard of 51.6, and possibly Johnny Weissmuller's world record of 51 flat.

There will be at least half a dozen human stumbling blocks in the Eli's path as he attempts to add the national crown to his eastern title garnered over the week-end but his biggest obstacle will be the superstition that mermen favor home surroundings.

At New Haven Saturday, Johnson inched out Ed Hueber of Penn and Ed Hall of Mass. State in 52.1, but Hall established a new intercollegiate mark of 51.1 in a trial heat. Since Hall has churned the Crimson pool on several more occasions than the Yale flash, he is considered to have the "jinx" advantage. Hueber, who copped the 50 in the easterns, is making his debut in Cambridge.

Other stars helping shatter the century mark include Fred Worthen of Dartmouth, with a season best of 52.6; Gus Sharemet of Michigan, 52 flat; and Bob Amundsen of Northwestern, 52.6; and Dick Kelly, Ed Pope and Johnny Pulleyn, all of Yale.

Entries from 29 colleges have been received by the H. A. A., including: Amherst, Army, Bowdoin, Columbia, Chicago, Dartmouth, Iowa State, University of Iowa, Massachusetts State, Michigan, Michigan State, Minnesota, Navy, North Carolina, Northwestern, Occidental (Los Angeles), Ohio State, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Rensselaer, Rutgers, Springfield, Syracuse-Tennessee, Texas A. & M., Wayne, Southern Cal. and Yale.

ALEC BRIGHT PIONEERED SKI TRAMS

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

FRANCONIA NOTCH, N. H., March 24—"There would not be an aerial tramway on Cannon Mountain today if it had not been for the efforts and initiative of Alec Bright," declared Roland Peabody, general manager of the tram.

In case there is any skier who does not know of his fame, Alec Bright is one of New England's pioneers of the ski world. The 46-year-old Bostonian has long been a member of the Hochgebirge Ski Club and still goes in for competitive racing, although most chaps quit this dangerous sport when they reach thirty. Agile Alec holds many titles and championships; notably, the Masachusetts downhill crown which he won only two years ago on the terrific Thunderbolt Trail.

Getting back to our tale of the Tramway, Peabody told us that when Alec went to Europe in 1932 as a member of the U. S. Olympic Ski Team, he had his first ride on a funicular, or aerial tram. Riding up several miles, eliminating hours of tedious climbing, so delighted this racer, upon returning to America, he immediately started campaigning for the construction of a like conveyor somewhere in New Hampshire.

GOV. WINANT CO-OPERATED

Explaining his idea to Peabody, who at once became imbued with the same enthusiasm, these two skiers induced Johnny Carleton, 1928 Olympic racer, to join them. The trio then contacted Don Tuttle, head of the New Hampshire State publicity department, who called on a group of representative hotel men to find out their reactions on the plan. The meeting was held in Concord, N. H., in 1933, and the committee obtained the co-operation of Gov. Winant.

To choose a suitable site for such a project, a careful survey of New Hampshire's mountain terrain was made by the forestry department. After a long search, Cannon Mountain was chosen as the spot, chiefly for its accessibility by train and highway, and, naturally, because of the records that showed good snow depths here during past winters.

The bill that called for the building of the tram went up before the State legislators in 1935, but it was killed. However, it passed with flying colors in 1937, thanks partly to the splendid efforts of Peabody who had spent 22 weeks "lobbying" in Concord.

USED BY 600,000

Construction of the tramway was placed in the hands of the American Steel & Wire Company, which has built seven hundred of them in the United States—all being used for commercial purposes, such as loading and hauling.

Owned and operated by the State, the Cannon Mountain aerial tramway officially opened in June 1938. Since that date, 600,000 passengers have been conveyed on the "magic carpet," ascending 4000 feet to the summit in eight minutes. Of this number, about 175,000 have been skiers.

First Line Blamed For Rangers' Losses

(AP)—You may take it from Happy Day, coach of the Toronto Maple Leafs, that a majority of his players are wearing bandages and braces for the play-off contests with the New York Rangers "but their hearts ain't crippled."

The Rangers, league champions until their playoff tactics earned them the title of league chumps, were favorites to march off easily with the semi-final round decision in the series for the Stanley Cup, but the Leafs, bandages and all, won Saturday night and came right back to repeat on Sunday.

Never since the present arrangements for the playoffs have been in existence has a team dropped the first two contests of the best four out of seven series and then revived enough to advance.

The third meeting is scheduled for tonight at Madison Square Garden while Chicago tries to gain a quarter-final verdict at Boston and Montreal hopes to subdue Detroit for the first time in the Canadiens' forum.

BLAMES FIRST LINE

Lester Patrick, president of the Ranger outfit, was closeted with the club for a time yesterday and upon leaving said that hockey was hardly discussed. However, Hub Macey, an amateur star only a few weeks ago, will take the ice for either Alf Pike or Clint Smith against the Leafs tomorrow.

Pike has been troubled by injuries recently while Smith hasn't scored in the last 19 games. Normie Burns and Normie Tustin, of New Haven in the American League, also have been called up.

Patrick and the Ranger coach, Frank Boucher, put some of the blame for the two losses on the Rangers' first line, Lynn Patrick, Phil Watson and Bryan Hextall. The trio finished at the top of the league scoring race, but still have their first playoff point to get.

Montreal has the benefit of home ice in its effort to catch up with the Red Wings. The Canadiens were the hottest team in the league as the regulation season closed, but dropped the first of the quarter-final battles to Detroit, 2 and 1.

Layden made the prediction as he left for New York and a four-day meetin gof officials of the National League. Two sessions of the rules committee will open the meeting tomorrow.

Normal operations, designed to provide relaxation for the fans in time of stress, are planned for the league Layden said.

MEADE TOPS JOCKEYS WITH $15,000 PAY

By the Associated Press

Few changes will be made this season among the riders contracted by the major stables.

Don Meade, who switched his affiliation from George Odom to Walter Chryeler's Breymann Farms late in the 1941 season, has a contract that runs through the end of this year at a reported salary of $15,000. In addition he will receive the customary 10 per cent of all winnings, making him the highest paid rider in the country.

Eddie Arcaro again will don the silks of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree Stables for $1000 a month and the usual prize fee, while Alf Robertson again is to handle the Brookmeade Stable horses of Mrs. Isabel Sloane Dodge. He will receive $10,000 annually, plus the fees.

George Woolf is with the W. L. Brann Stables and Carroll Bierman has been re-engaged by the Milky Way Farm of Mrs. Ethel V. Mars. Leon (Buddy) Haas remains with the Charles S. Howard string and Conn McCreary continues with Wodovale Farms.

Sterling Young remains the Col. Edward R. Bradley rider and Darrell Madden will do the hooting for Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt.

Wendell Eads remains with Calumet Farms, Warren Mehrtens and Walter Warren with Max Hirsch and Wayne Wright now is riding for J. E. Partridge.

Basil James, who rode last season for C. V. Whitney, is free lancing and has been engaged to ride Mrs. Al Sabath's Alsab in the Kentucky Derby. Other free lancers are Nick Wall, Johnny Gilbert, Johnny Longden and Kenneth Mc-Combs.

Charles S. Howard, Mioland's owner, says the Coral Gables Handicap winner will rest for a few days and that his next engagement may be the $10,000 Tropical Handicap on the final day of the Tropical Park meeting, April 10.

"I plan the Tropical as his next start," said Howard, "but naturally I want to see the weights before making a final decision. He came out of the weekend race in great shape."

Although Mioland won back some of his prestige, Saturday Porter's Cap was a dismal third yesterday in a Tropical Park four-horse race over six furlongs. William Hirschensohn's De Kalb was the victor and second went to Mrs. A. Pelletier's Bull Reigh, while N. S. McCarthy's Augury, the horse that set the track record only 10 days ago, was fourth.

De Kalb's time was 1:12 and he paid $9.10 to win, $4.70 for place.
